TWELFTH YEAR. NO. 294.

EAST LIVERPOOL, OHIO, MONDAY, JUNE 7, 1897.

TWO CENTS

SENATORS UNDECIDED.

Do Not Know When They Will Reach Sugar.

CONTESTS OVER FARM PRODUCTS.

Senator Pettigrew Will Offer His Anti-Trust Amendment—Senator Aldrich Expected to Be In His Seat Soon—The House Has No Work.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—While the tariff will continue the general topic of discussion in the senate during the present week, there is no certainty as to what portion of it will receive especial attention. This uncertainty is due largely to the difficulty of determining when the sugar schedule will be taken up. It is so generally understood that this schedule will consume considerable time that there is no effort to outline beyond it the course of proceedings. The wood schedule afforded a brief respite today before reaching the sugar question, as that subject was left undisposed of when the senate adjourned on Saturday. Senator Allen probably will enter a motion to strike out the entire paragraph relating to sawed lumber, and the motion may lead to other speeches than his own.

Whether the sugar schedule will be taken up in order is still undetermined. There are many differences of opinion on the subject, but the prevailing desire is to get the schedule out of the way as soon as possible. This is the case on both sides of the chamber, but it is especially true of the Republicans, as the responsibility for action rests there. Still there is a desire among many Republican senators that there should be absolute agreement among themselves on the rates of this schedule before entering upon its discussion in the senate, and it is realized that this may be difficult of attainment without a further exchange of opinion than has yet been permitted.

There is no doubt in any event of a postponement until Senator Aldrich's return to the senate. He is still confined to his room, but is expected to be out early in the week. That the Hawaiian treaty will be protected by the finance committee is considered settled, but a caucus may be necessary to determine whether other changes should be made. Senator Pettigrew has decided definitely to offer his anti-trust amendment in connection with this schedule, but beyond the fact that it will lead to a number of speeches there is no certainty as to its course or its fate.

The tobacco schedule immediately follows the sugar schedule, but if it should be reached on today it would be necessary also temporarily to pass it over, as the committee has promised the tobacco men a hearing to-night. They will ask for $2 on wrapper and 35 cents on filler tobacco. There is also an inclination to return to the language of the Wilson law on this subject. This is understood to be the wish of both the importers and the tobacco growers.

There are many sharp contests ahead on the paragraphs of the agricultural schedule, which is next after tobacco, including those on rice, on which there will be an effort to secure a return to the house rates; on cattle, on which it will be claimed there should be an ad valorem rather than a specific duty and on fish, fruits, chicory and salt. The innovation of a duty on tea is also proposed on this schedule, but it is practically certain that this provision will be withdrawn by the committee. Thus what would have been one of the severest contests over the bill will be avoided. The cotton and spirit schedules will, it is now thought, excite comparatively little debate.

The house has no work ahead of it this week, and it is the intention of the majority leaders to adjourn today until Thursday and from Thursday until Monday. Mr. Simpson and other members of the minority doubtless will essay the usual manoeuvres with the purpose of embarrassing the Republicans, but in the present condition of the house their latitude is narrow and they readily can be overcome by their adversaries.

WILL BE THERE OHIO DAY.

President McKinley to Visit the Tennessee Exposition.

NASHVILLE, June 7.—There is much interest felt here over the visit of President McKinley to the exposition here Friday, which is Ohio day. The following is the program:

The President, Governor Bushnell of Ohio, and party will be escorted to the Maxwell house for breakfast after which Governor Taylor will be received. At 10:30 the president and party will be escorted to the centennial grounds, accompanying them will be Governor Bushnell and staff and Governor Taylor and staff. The escort will include U. S. troops and Tennessee troops. At 11 o'clock, in the auditorium addresses of welcome will be delivered by President Thomas, Mayor McCarthy and Governor Taylor. Responses will be made by Senator Clark of Ohio; Governor Bushnell and the president. Luncheon will follow and then the inspection of buildings and grounds. At 5 o'clock the president, Mrs. McKinley and the ladies of the party will hold a reception for ladies in the women's building.

Saturday morning at 11 o'clock President McKinley will hold a public reception in the auditorium and will also participate in the exercises of Cincinnati day. Saturday night the president and party leave for Chattanooga.

FIREMEN LOSE THEIR LIVES.

A San Francisco Blaze Causes Three Deaths.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—A fire in the southeastern part of the city cost three firemen their lives and entailed a property loss of $100,000. The killed are: John Mahoney of chemical engine No. 6; Frank Keller, steward of hose cart No. 2; James Hallinan, driver of truck No. 1.

The fire started mysteriously in the four-story brick building owned by Schroth & Westerfield and leased to the Standard Biscuit company. The only occupant of the building was John Erwin, the bookkeeper, who was at work in the office. A fireman rushed in conveying the information that the building was ablaze in the upper stories. Erwin had been unconscious of the fire, which had been observed but a few minutes earlier by several passers-by, who were startled by a sudden burst of flames in the fourth story. After the first alarm the fire chief turned in a second and general alarm. A stiff breeze fanned the fire within the brick walls and caused it to spread with extraordinary rapidity.

With the crash of the east wall occurred the tragedy of the conflagration. A score of firemen were in an adjoining paint shop endeavoring from that spot to check the spread of the flames. A falling of timber struck Fireman Mahoney on the leg, breaking it. He refused to allow his comrades to carry him away in their arms insisting that he must be borne off on a shutter. All but two of the band of firemen ran to procure a shutter, and just as they left their injured comrade, the wall fell, burying beneath a mass of brick and mortar Mahoney and his faithful friends. By dint of much dangerous labor the three bodies were recovered.

THE IMMIGRATION QUESTION.

Diplomatic Relations Between Hawaii and Japan May Be Severed.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—The steamer Coptic has arrived from Honolulu bringing advices up to May 31. According to the latest information procurable the difficulty between Japan and Hawaii, growing out of the immigration question, has been increased rather than diminished by the diplomatic proceedings. Officers on board the Japanese cruiser Naniwai, now at Honolulu, state that a second Japanese man-of-war is now enroute to Honolulu, and that a third vessel is about to depart from Yokohama for the islands.

Mrs. Shimamura, wife of the Japanese minister here, has arranged to leave for Japan on June 5. The intended departure caused a rumor in Honolulu to the effect that the minister would soon follow her. He admitted that he was not satisfied with the answer of the Hawaiian government in regard to the immigrant controversy, and he gave close friends to understand that unless a reply satisfactory to him were made he would depart for Tokio, thereby severing diplomatic relations between Japan and Hawaii.

Glassmen Amalgamate.

MUNCIE, Ind., June 7.—Three hundred men employed in the cutting and flattening departments of the 50 window glass factories in Indiana have met here and by a unanimous vote decided to amalgamate the two trades as against the blowers and gatherers of the same trade. They claim that President Burns of the Window Glass Workers' Association of North America is working for the interest of the blowers and gatherers to their detriment. The men declared that if the blowers refused to recognize them they would bounce Burns and take charge of the association, treasury and all.

The Indian Murderers Arrested.

MILES CITY, Mont., June 7.—Stock Inspector Smith, having in charge Badger, the Indian who killed Sheepherder Hoover, has arrived here. Special police and deputy sheriffs were on hand to protect the prisoner in case the citizens resorted to violence. Badger exhibited no sign of nervousness. His face was streaked with red paint and his blanket was drawn tightly over his shoulders. Badger was escorted to the railroad by a company of cavalry.

Two Frenchmen Fight a Duel.

PARIS, June 7.—Monsieur Thomson and Monsieur Mirman, members of the chamber of deputies, have fought a duel, growing out of an article written by the latter attacking Monsieur Thomson. Monsieur Mirman was slightly wounded in the forearm. The latter is a radical socialist, and gained considerable notoriety through his protest against being confined in barracks as a conscript during the election of a president to succeed Casimir-Perier.

Killed at Her Wedding.

WHEELING, June 7.—At Salem, Harrison county, John Nicholas and Ida Sutton were married. After the wedding and just as they were entering the Nicholas home, a shotgun in the hands of one of a party of serenaders burst, and a piece of the barrel struck the bride, fracturing her skull and causing her death.

A RIGHTEOUS CAUSE.

Mrs. Gaumer Gives a Card to the Press.

THANKFUL FOR KIND WORDS.

The Victims of the Riot Will Be Looked Upon as Heroes—An Immense Procession Follows the Body of Farmer Upton to the Grave.

URBANA, O., June 7.—The most stirring fact in the trail of Thursday's dark tragedy is a card from the victim of the lynched negro's lust.

Mrs. T. M. Gaumer's card has been given to the press. It contains the following touching and startling passages: "With a sorely chastened hand and mind, I desire to take this means of showing to our friends our heartfelt appreciation of the many kindly words shown us during the fiery trial of our recent affliction.

"Not only are we thankful for the personal calls of sympathy at our door, for flowers and cards from our neighbors, but for sympathetic messages from a distance. Almost beyond the ocean have come to us loving words of sympathy. God bless our noble men and women of Urbana who have held up my hands that I may once more take up the cares and burdens of life.

"May our loving Heavenly Father help us to lay off the shackles of formality and meet those kindred spirits who have so grandly come to us in our hour of bitter trial that we may go forth in the field that is white for us to harvest for good; that we may walk more humbly, more submissively, that the strife we have borne may remind us evermore of Him who while on earth knew nothing else but sorrow and affliction.

"God bless our noble men and women of the christian band of ours, our governor, adjutant general, our mayor and our city and county officials and citizens of every walk in life, who not only gave sympathy but faced bayonets that the foulest strain upon our city's most sacred page might be blotted out, that their homes, their loved ones may be shielded such a fate as that of a fair name that throughout life must feel over a deeper sorrow than that of the parting of loved ones."

"Never did soldiers die on any battlefield for a more holy and righteous cause than did these brave boys for the purity of their homes, for mothers, daughters, and sisters. They should be looked on as heroes willing to spill their blood for the holiest of all and any cause."

The funeral procession following the body of Farmer Upton Baker to the grave passed through here on its way to the burial place at Point Pleasant, in Clark county. It was an immense procession. People on the streets here took off their hats and stood with bared heads as it passed. Ceremonies at the home and at the grave were brief and simple. Upton Baker and Harry Bell were standing side by side near the jail when they were killed Thursday night.

One more victim was added to the fatalities of Friday morning when Wesley Bowen died last night. Bowen was shot in the hip, having two wounds and was in a very dangerous condition, but the physicians had some hopes of his recovery. Wank, the other man whose condition was considered critical, is not improved, and, although his death is momentarily expected, there is some hope that he may survive.

The funeral of Harry Bell, the young man who was to have been married soon to Miss Mamie King, occurred today. It was the largest funeral ever held in Urbana. A large crowd attended from Springfield. Bell was a broommaker by trade and worked at the factory in Urbana, as did Lieutenant Campbell of the militia, and since the riot the other employees have notified the company not to allow Campbell to return to work. The sentiment against the members of the militia is strong, the people seeming to think they should have fired over the heads of the mob.

A petition to the legislature that is receiving hundreds of signatures says: "The foul assailant has met violent death at the hands of a maddened crowd and as a result of the excitement growing out of the effort to get possession of him several innocent people have been killed. These deplorable scenes occur almost as regularly as the crime is committed. They will continue to occur until a penalty is fixed by law which shall satisfy the people and the people are sure no guilty man shall escape it."

Governor Bushnell, in an interview, said that a sheriff by the laws of Ohio has power to call on state troops in his county to protect persons and property. The law of Ohio is peculiar in this respect. The sheriff at Urbana called the local company into service. He was at Wooster when he got a telegram from Captain Leonard saying that the sheriff wanted help. He did not look upon this as a proper order. He did not ask for help.

The governor said the sheriff did not inform him of the existing trouble until it had reached its climax, although the thing had been brewing several days, he has been assured by all classes of people in Urbana that he did all that could have been done under the circumstances.

Sheriff McLain is now in Dayton, visiting at the home of his brother-in-law, A. J. Weaver. The feeling is very bitter against him, and it looks as if it would be very dangerous for him to return at present. Deputy Sheriff Kerby stated that it would not be safe for McLain or Captain Leonard to return until after Bell's funeral.

ON THEIR SIGHTSEEING TOUR.

The Delegates of the Pan-American Congress Now In Baltimore.

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—The delegates from cities and towns of Mexico and of the Central and South American states, 49 in number, who came here to the Pan-American trade congress, which closed on Friday, have left this city for their six weeks' sightseeing tour of the United States. Some of the delegates who represented trade bodies of cities in the United States at the congress will accompany the party, as will also a few of the officials of the Philadelphia commercial museums, who will look after the arrangements and details of the trip.

The party will spend today and tomorrow in Baltimore and Washington and on Wednesday they will arrive at New York. While at New York the party will visit Brooklyn, Jersey City, Newark, Paterson and other places in the vicinity of the metropolis and will leave on Sunday evening on one of the sound steamers for Fall River. Ten days will be spent in New England, returning to New York on June 23, then they will leave at once for the west, the first stop to be made at Pittsburg. Leaving Pittsburg the party will go to Dayton, Cincinnati, Nashville, St. Louis, Chicago, Milwaukee, Grand Rapids, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and across New York state to Troy and Albany, thence by day boat on the Hudson to New York city.

CITIZENS DEFY COURTS.

A Mob Lays the Floor of a Bridge at Defiance.

DEFIANCE, O., June 7.—A mob of 150 citizens took the law into their own hands, and, regardless of two injunctions, laid the floor of the Hopkins street bridge across the Auglaize river.

The bridge was torn up undergoing repairs, but the work had been stopped by injunction on the action of the street railway company, which had previously been enjoined from using the structure.

The circuit court at Findlay sustained the latter injunction, and the business men became indignant, and decided to open this important means of egress from the city. They congregated quietly with teams and tools, and, after stationing guards to prevent interference, were soon busy laying and nailing the planks in place.

WILL CHEAPEN STEEL.

A Process for Turning Common Iron Into Steel Tested.

BELLAIRE, O., June 7.—The John B. Hastings process for converting common iron into steel was tested before a large audience at the Bellaire Edge Tool company's works in this city. The audience was composed chiefly of iron and steel experts, who, after putting the steel made to the most severe tests known to them pronounced it a positive success.

Five hundred pounds of iron was treated and converted into steel at a cost of less than 5 cents. The converter, which is an invention of Mr. Hastings, is heated by oil and air, requiring but two gallons of oil, at a cost of 45 cents per barrel, to obtain the required heat. The steel that was made at this test cost less than 1 cent a pound. Another test will be made at the same works soon.

SUICIDED AT A HOTEL.

A Young Law Student Shoots Himself at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, June 7.—Chapel E. Heath, apparently 28 years old, a well-dressed guest at the Gibson House has been found dead sitting in his chair in his night clothes, with a pistol wound in his temple and in his left breast. It has been learned that he was a graduate of the Washington Lee university, Virginia, that several years ago he received an injury to his head causing spells of partial insanity. He is the son of Dr. Heath of Richmond, Ky., and appears as a law student of that place. His conduct when he registered was perfectly rational and attracted no attention. On the contrary, he was very cheerful.

France Visited by a Cloudburst.

PARIS, June 7.—A cloudburst in the hill country of the province of Isere, in southeastern France, has caused the overflow of the river Morge and the destruction of a number of paper mills and silk factories, as well as houses along the banks. At the towns of Voiron and Moirans the river rose suddenly 20 feet. One person was drowned and the loss of property is estimated at 10,000,000 francs. Four thousand factory operatives are thrown out of employment.

The Weather.

Fair, except light showers on the lakes; slightly cooler; light variable winds.

ADVISED HIS RECALL.

The Queen Urged to Replace General Weyler.

DE LOME RECEIVES HER DECISION.

He Declines to Discuss the Policy In Regard to Cuba—The Solution of the Crisis a Surprise—Minister Taylor Cables Secretary Sherman.

MADRID, June 7.—The queen regent has confirmed Senor Conovas, the premier, in his ministerial powers, and the cabinet will remain in office with personnel and policy unchanged.

All the leading members of the senate and of the chamber of deputies who were consulted by her majesty, as well as three marshals, have advised the recall of Captain General Weyler from Cuba.

Spanish Minister Depuy de Lome received a cablegram announcing the result of the queen's decision in the matter of the Spanish premier and cabinet ministers who recently tendered their resignations.

It says the queen had reached her decision after consulting with the former premiers and the marshals. Included in the former were Senor Sagasta, the present premier of the Liberal party, and Martinez Campos, the captain general of Cuba who gave way to General Weyler. Mr. De Lome declined to discuss the possibilities of the retention in office of the present ministry in relation to the policy to be pursued with regard to Cuban affairs and the incumbency of Captain General Weyler.

Secretary Sherman also received a long cable dispatch from United States Minister Taylor at Madrid. Presumably it is in connection with the happenings of the day in that city, but as it was in cipher the secretary was unable to disclose the contents. The secretary declined to make any statement in regard to the matter further than to suggest that it indicated the confidence of the queen in the ministry.

LONDON, June 7.—The Madrid correspondent of The Times says: The solution of the crisis is a general surprise as much, perhaps, in ministerial ranks as in the world at large. It was thought, not without reason, that the counsels of the higher military authorities, as represented by Marshal Campos, Marshal Blanco and Marshal Dominguez, would have inclined the crown toward a radical and distinct change of policy in the Cuban campaign.

This idea was especially prevalent, as Senor Canovas has himself admitted that, both as regards reform and the conduct of the war by Captain General Weyler, his own hopes and aspirations have scarcely been fulfilled.

The only explanation is that the first thought of the premier is to vindicate his "amour propre" so far as the Liberals are concerned and when this is established to find occasion at an early date so as to modify the cabinet as to satisfy the Liberals and to terminate the deadlock before the cortes reassembles, which will probably not be for several months. It can hardly be doubted that the modifications would include the replacing of Captain General Weyler by some other commander.

At a cabinet meeting at his residence Senor Conovas, the premier, announced that the queen regent had renewed his powers and those of the cabinet in terms most flattering to him and all his colleagues. It is understood that the government does not contemplate any immediate change in the supreme command of Cuba. The surprise and displeasure of the various sections of the opposition are not easy to describe.

Maps on the Venezuelan Boundary.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The maps of the Orinoco Essequibo region of South America compiled for the use of the Venezuelan boundary commission have been published in atlas form. The publication contains much valuable data that will be of use to the counsel for the respective countries in the arguments before the arbitration tribunal to which body the boundary discussion has been relegated.

CONTESTS OVER FARM PRODUCTS.

Senator Pettigrew Will Offer His Anti-Trust Amendment to His Senatorial Committee Expected to Be in His Seat Soon—The House Has No Work.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—While the tariff will continue the general topic of discussion in the senate during the present week, there is no certainty as to what portion of it will receive special attention. This uncertainty is due largely to the difficulty of determining when the sugar schedule will be taken up. It is so generally understood that this schedule will consume considerable time that there is no effort to outline beyond it the course of proceedings. A RIGHTEOUS CAUSE.

Mrs. Gaumer Gives a Card to the Press.

THANKFUL FOR KIND WORDS.

The Victims of the Riot Will Be Looked Upon as Heroes—An Immense Procession Follows the Body of Farmer Upton to the Grave.

URBANA, O., June 7.—The most stirring fact in the trail of Thursday's dark tragedy is a card from the victim of the lynched negro's lust.

Mrs. T. M. Gaumer's card has been given to the press. The funeral of Harry Bell, the young man who was to have been married soon to Miss Mamie King, occurred today. It was the largest funeral ever held in Urbana. A large crowd attended from Springfield. Bell was a broommaker by trade and worked at the factory in Urbana, as did Lieutenant Campbell of the militia, and since the riot the other employees have notified the company not to allow Campbell to return to work. The sentiment against the members of the militia is strong, the people seeming to think they should have fired over the heads of the mob.

A petition to the legislature that is receiving hundreds of signatures says: "The foul assassin has met violent death at the hands of a maddened crowd and as a result of the excitement growing out of the effort to get possession of him several innocent people have been killed. These deplorable scenes occur almost as regularly as the crime is committed. They will continue to occur until a penalty is fixed by law which shall satisfy the people and the people are sure no guilty man shall escape it."

Governor Bushnell, in an interview, said that a sheriff by the laws of Ohio has power to call on state troops in his county to protect persons and property. The law of Ohio is peculiar in this respect. The sheriff at Urbana called the local company into service. He was at Wooster when he got a telegram from Captain Leonard saying that the sheriff wanted help. He did not look upon this as a proper order. He did not ask for help.

The governor said the sheriff did not inform him of the existing trouble until it had reached its climax, although the thing had been brewing several days.

He has been assured by all classes of people in Urbana that he did all that could have been done under the circumstances.

Sheriff McLain is now in Dayton, visiting at the home of his brother-in-law, A. J. Weaver. The feeling is very bitter against him, and it looks as if it would be very dangerous for him to return at present. Deputy Sheriff Kerby stated that it would not be safe for McLain or Captain Leonard to return until after Bell's funeral.

ON THEIR SIGHTSEEING TOUR.

The Delegates of the Pan-American Congress Now in Baltimore.

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—The delegates from cities and towns of Mexico and of the Central and South American states, 49 in number, who came here to the Pan-American trade congress, which closed on Friday, have left this city for their six weeks' sightseeing tour of the United States. Some of the delegates who represented trade bodies of cities in the United States at the congress will accompany the party, as will also a few of the officials of the Philadelphia commercial museums, who will look after the arrangements and details of the trip.

The party will spend today and tomorrow in Baltimore and Washington and on Wednesday they will arrive at New York. While at New York the party will visit Brooklyn, Jersey City, Newark, Paterson and other places in the vicinity of the metropolis and will leave on Sunday evening on one of the sound steamers for Fall River. Ten days will be spent in New England, returning to New York on June 23, then they will leave at once for the west, the first stop to be made at Pittsburg. Leaving Pittsburg the party will go to Dayton, Cincinnati, Nashville, St. Louis, Chicago, Milwaukee, Grand Rapids, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and across New York state to Troy and Albany, thence by day boat on the Hudson to New York city.

CITIZENS DEFY COURTS.

A Mob Lays the Floor of a Bridge at Defiance.

DEFIANCE, O., June 7.—A mob of 150 citizens took the law into their own hands, and, regardless of two injunctions, laid the floor of the Hopkins street bridge across the Auglaize river.

The bridge was torn up undergoing repairs, but the work had been stopped by injunction on the action of the street railway company, which had previously been enjoined from using the structure.

The circuit court at Findlay sustained the latter injunction, and the business men became indignant, and decided to open this important means of egress from the city. They congregated quietly with teams and tools, and, after stationing guards to prevent interference, were soon busy laying and nailing the planks in place.

WILL CHEAPEN STEEL.

A Process for Turning Common Iron Into Steel Tested.

BELLAIRE, O., June 7.—The John B. Hastings process for converting common iron into steel was tested before a large audience at the Bellaire Edge Tool company's works in this city. The audience was composed chiefly of iron and steel experts, who, after putting the steel made to the most severe tests known to them pronounced it a positive success.

Five hundred pounds of iron was treated and converted into steel at a cost of less than 5 cents. The converter, which is an invention of Mr. Hastings, is heated by oil and air, requiring but two gallons of oil, at a cost of 45 cents per barrel, to obtain the required heat. The steel that was made at this test cost less than 1 cent a pound. Another test will be made at the same works soon.

SUICIDED AT A HOTEL.

A Young Law Student Shoots Himself at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, June 7.—Chapel E. Heath, apparently 25 years old, a well-dressed guest at the Gibson House has been found dead sitting in his chair in his night clothes, with a pistol wound in his temple and in his left breast. It has been learned that he was a graduate of the Washington Lee university, Virginia, that several years ago he received an injury to his head causing spells of partial insanity.

He is the son of Dr. Heath of Richmond, Ky., and appears as a law student of that place. His conduct when he registered was perfectly rational and attracted no attention. On the contrary, he was very cheerful.

France Visited by a Cloudburst.

PARIS, June 7.—A cloudburst in the hill country of the province of Isere, in southeastern France, has caused the overflow of the river Morge and the destruction of a number of paper mills and silk factories, as the towns of Voiron and Moirans the river rose suddenly 20 feet. One person was drowned and the loss of property is estimated at 10,000,000 francs. Four thousand factory operatives are thrown out of employment.

ADVISED HIS RECALL.

The Queen Urged to Replace General Weyler.

DE LOME RECEIVES HER DECISION.

He Declines to Discuss the Policy in Regard to Cuba—The Solution of the Crisis a Surprise—Minister Taylor Cables Secretary Sherman.

MADRID, June 7.—The queen regent has confirmed Senor Conovas, the premier, in his ministerial powers, and the cabinet will remain in office with personnel and policy unchanged.

All the leading members of the senate and of the chamber of deputies who were consulted by her majesty, as well as three marshals, have advised the recall of Captain General Weyler from Cuba.

Spanish Minister Depuy de Lome received a cablegram announcing the result of the queen's decision in the matter of the Spanish premier and cabinet ministers who recently tendered their resignations.

It says the queen had reached her decision after consulting with the former premiers and the marshals. Included in the former were Senor Sagasta, the present premier of the Liberal party, and Martinez Campos, the captain general of Cuba who gave way to General Weyler. Mr. De Lome declined to discuss the possibilities of the retention in office of the present ministry in relation to the policy to be pursued with regard to Cuban affairs and the incumbency of Captain General Weyler.

Secretary Sherman also received a long cable dispatch from United States Minister Taylor at Madrid. Presumably it is in connection with the happenings of the day in that city, but as it was in cipher the secretary was unable to disclose the contents. The secretary declined to make any statement in regard to the matter further than to suggest that it indicated the confidence of the queen in the ministry.

LONDON, June 7.—The Madrid correspondent of The Times says: The solution of the crisis is a general surprise as much, perhaps, in ministerial ranks as in the world at large. It was thought, not without reason, that the counsels of the higher military authorities, as represented by Marshal Campos, Marshal Blanco and Marshal Dominguez, would have inclined the crown toward a radical and distinct change of policy in the Cuban campaign.

This idea was especially prevalent, as Senor Conovas has himself admitted that, both as regards reform and the conduct of the war by Captain General Weyler, his own hopes and aspirations have scarcely been fulfilled.

The only explanation is that the first thought of the premier is to vindicate his "amour propre" so far as the Liberals are concerned and when this is established to find occasion at an early date so as to modify the cabinet as to satisfy the Liberals and to terminate the deadlock before the cortes reassembles, which will probably not be for several months. It can hardly be doubted that the modifications would include the replacing of Captain General Weyler by some other commander.

At a cabinet meeting at his residence Senor Conovas, the premier, announced that the queen regent had renewed his powers and those of the cabinet in terms most flattering to him and all his colleagues. It is understood that the government does not contemplate any immediate change in the supreme command of Cuba. The surprise and displeasure of the various sections of the opposition are not easy to describe.

Maps on the Venezuelan Boundary.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The maps of the Orinoco Essequibo region of South America compiled for the use of the Venezuelan boundary commission have been published in atlas form. The publication contains much valuable data that will be of use to the counsel for the respective countries in the arguments before the arbitration tribunal to which body the boundary discussion has been relegated.

LIVING BAROMETERS.

CREATURES OF THE LOWER ORDERS THAT FORETELL WEATHER.

Animal Instinct or Something Else Which Tells Bugs, Birds and Beasts When There Is Going to Be a Storm—A Frog That Climbs a Ladder to Give Warning.

The spider is a good example of the living barometer. Close observation of the work on its web castle will soon enable one to forecast the weather. When a high wind or a heavy rain threatens, the spider may be seen taking in sail with great energy—that is, shortening the rope filaments that sustain the web structure. If the storm is to be unusually severe or of long duration, the ropes are strengthened as well as shortened, the better to resist the onset of the elements. Not until pleasant weather is again close at hand will the ropes be lengthened as before. On the contrary, when you see the spider running out the slender filaments, it is certain that calm, fine weather has set in, whose duration may be measured by their elongation.

Every 24 hours the spider makes some alteration in its web to suit the weather. If these changes are made toward evening, just before sunset, a fine clear night may be safely counted upon. When the spider sits quiet and dull in the middle of its web, rain is not far off. If it be active, however, and continues so during a shower, then it will be of brief duration, and sunshine will follow.

These various indications may be witnessed and studied to the best advantage in the open air. But you need not always go outdoors to watch the spider barometer. There are few houses where the crafty creature does not find an obscure corner wherein to swing its sign-board, "Flies taken in and done for here." Watch these places, and when you see the spiders coming out on the walls more freely than usual you may be sure that rain is near.

There are individuals who would not keep a stock of spiders about their premises for the express purpose of prophesying the weather from their movements, and the enmity felt by the good housemaid for this particular species of animal is notorious. Those individuals can study the movements of their own domestic animals. Cats and dogs are given to scratching and other uneasy movements on the approach of rainy weather, and their fur looks less bright and glossy. Horses and cattle stretch their necks and sniff the air. Sheep become frolicsome or turn their backs to the wind and quarrel frequently. Goats bleat incessantly and leave the hilltops for more sheltered spots. Pigs run uneasily about, carrying straw to the sty, and no longer wallow in the mud and mire. Fowls huddle together in the farmyard with drooping wings, and the air is filled with the clamorous cackle of geese and ducks. These who live in the country and spend much time in the open air have the advantage of observing the movements of wild animals and of feeling keenly in their own persons the operations of the changing atmospheric conditions. Moles become more active in digging, stoats and weasels become unusually restless and uneasy, and the hedgehog fortifies his cave against the coming storm with an unfailing provision which has earned for him a most enviable reputation as a weather prophet.

Wild birds make still better objects of observation, because in the "large air" their actions are easily noted. Crows and swallows remain near home when a tempest is brewing; sea gulls no longer venture out to sea, but hover over the fields or fly inland when wind and rain are near; swallows fly low and skim the water, and the robin broods melancholy in the bush or seeks the shelter of a neighboring roof. These are only a few of the many creatures of the fields and the air which enable a man who has eyes to see to forecast the weather during the next few hours. The explanation of all this is to be found in the exceeding sensitiveness of most animals, especially those which are more or less wild, to atmospheric conditions. They are all constantly making forecasts after their own manner, and, as we have hinted, they are far more trustworthy than any devices of man toward this end.

Several ingenious attempts have recently been made to turn this unailing instinct to some commercial use. A number of very unique living barometers have been put upon the market. The cheapest, and the one which will probably become the most popular, is the frog barometer. A small green frog is found in Germany which always comes out of the water when cold or wet weather is approaching. These frogs are caught and kept in glass jars furnished with a tiny ladder and half filled with water. The frog weather prophet sits high and dry on the top of his ladder for several hours before a storm and climbs down to the bottom when the weather is to be fair and clear. Other remarkable weather prophets are leeches, and we have heard of a old meteorologist who adjusted his barometer in such a way that the leeches would ring a little bell whenever a storm was approaching and would remain silent when the weather was fair or setting fair. These creatures will also indicate the weather in the same way as the green frog referred to. If kept in a jar filled with water, they will climb up the sides when it is about to rain and gather round the top.—London Standard.

PRISONER OF HIS FEARS.

Sultan Has Fifty Beds and Lets No One Know Which He'll Occupy.

"The 'commander of the faithful' is of middling stature, rather under than over the average, and of weakly constitution. His countenance has no wicked expression. It is of the Circassian type from the mother's side, but bearing the marks of degeneration. The eyes are haggard, the forehead insignificant and narrow, the eyebrows very thick, forming two great arcs, which coalesce. The large nose dominates the whole physiognomy and is slightly inclined to one side at the lower extremity. The mouth is large, the lips thick. The sultan wears his beard long, and care has sprinkled his hair and beard with silver within the last few years. It is a family tradition among the heirs of Osman to speak in a loud voice. Abdul Hamid's utterance is strident and imperious. It is the voice of a master addressing those whom he regards as his slaves."

Ever since he has been on the throne Abdul Hamid has rarely gone to bed at night to rise in the morning like an ordinary mortal. He seldom retires until dawn, but rises again at 8 o'clock, having spent the night hard at work listening to reports and attending to the affairs of state. When he has nothing else to do, he reads French detective stories, for he has an all pervading idea that conspiracies are being hatched against him, and passes his time circumventing an imaginary conspirator. Nobody knows where he will spend any part of the day or evening. Often he enters a building, and, while the sentries at the door believe that he is inside, he has gone by a back door and to some other building. Moreover, in whatever part of the palace he may be, there is a permanent service of surveillance day and night, and he is constantly accompanied by a score of persons, who organize a special service in the building or apartment where he happens to be for the moment.

Where the sultan will sleep is never known. He possesses more than 50 beds in the different parts of the palace, and these bedrooms are separated from the rest of the edifice by iron doors and furnished with most ingenious and complicated locks. Two superb St. Bernards also sleep outside the door of the apartment in which the sultan may be sleeping, for he knows that four footed guardians cannot be tampered with. Formerly the members of the imperial harem used to move about among the numerous palaces on the Bosphorus, but Abdul Hamid put a stop to it. The ladies of the harem never have the benefit of a change of air. Their palace is their prison, and nowhere does phthisis claim so many victims as in the harem of Yildiz.—Contemporary Review

FIELD DIVERSIONS.

A Federal Officer Who Read Novels Between Engagements.

General Horace Porter tells the following anecdote in his "Campaigning With Grant" in The Century: During the ten days of battle through which we had just passed very little relief, physical or mental, had been obtained, but there was one staff officer, a Colonel B—, who often came as bearer of messages to our headquarters, who always managed to console himself with novel reading, and his peculiarity in this respect became a standing joke among those who knew him. He went about with his saddle bags stuffed full of thrilling romances, and was seen several times sitting on his horse, under a brisk fire, poring over the last pages of an absorbing volume to reach the denouement of the plot and evincing a greater curiosity to find how the hero and the heroine were going to be extricated from the entangled dilemma into which they had been plunged by the unsympathetic author than to learn the result of the surrounding battle.

One of his peculiarities was that he took it for granted that all the people he met were perfectly familiar with his line of literature, and he talked about nothing but the merits of the latest novel. For the last week he had been devouring Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables." It was an English translation, for the officer had no knowledge of French. As he was passing a house in rear of the "angle" he saw a young lady seated on the porch, and, stopping his horse, bowed to her with all the grace of a Chesterfield and endeavored to engage her in conversation. Before he had gone far he took occasion to remark, "By the way, have you seen 'Lees Miserables?'" anglicizing the pronunciation. Her black eyes snapped with indignation as she tartly replied: "Don't you talk to me that way. They are a good deal better than Grant's mis-erables anyhow!" This was retold so often by those who heard it that, for some time after, its repetition seriously endangered the colonel's peace of mind.

If the storm is to be unusually severe or of long duration, the ropes are strengthened as well as shortened, the better to resist the onset of the elements. Not until pleasant weather is again close at hand will the ropes be lengthened as before. On the contrary, when you see the spider running out the slender filaments, it is certain that calm, fine weather has set in, whose duration may be measured by their elongation.

Every 24 hours the spider makes some alteration in its web to suit the weather. If these changes are made toward evening, just before sunset, a fine clear night may be safely counted upon. When the spider sits quiet and dull in the middle of its web, rain is not far off. If it be active, however, and continues so during a shower, then it will be of brief duration, and sunshine will follow.

These various indications may be witnessed and studied to the best advantage in the open air. But you need not always go outdoors to watch the spider barometer. There are few houses where the crafty creature does not find an obscure corner wherein to swing its signboard, "Flies taken in and done for here." Watch these places, and when you see the spiders coming out on the walls more freely than usual you may be sure that rain is near.

There are individuals who would not keep a stock of spiders about their premises for the express purpose of prophesying the weather from their movements, and the enmity felt by the good housemaid for this particular species of animal is notorious. Those individuals can study the movements of their own domestic animals. Cats and dogs are given to scratching and other uneasy movements on the approach of rainy weather, and their fur looks less bright and glossy. Horses and cattle stretch their necks and sniff the air. Sheep become frolicsome or turn their backs to the wind and quarrel frequently. Goats bleat incessantly and leave the hilltops for more sheltered spots. Pigs run uneasily about, carrying straw to the sty, and no longer wallow in the mud and mire. Fowls huddle together in the farmyard with drooping wings, and the air is filled with the clamorous cackle of geese and ducks. Those who live in the country and spend much time in the open air have the advantage of observing the movements of wild animals and of feeling keenly in their own persons the operations of the changing atmospherical conditions. Moles become more active in digging, stoats and weasels become unusually restless and uneasy, and the hedgehog fortifies his cave against the coming storm with an unfailing provision which has earned for him a most enviable reputation as a weather prophet.

Wild birds make still better objects of observation, because in the "large air" their actions are easily noted. Crows and swallows remain near home when a tempest is brewing; sea gulls no longer venture out to sea, but hover over the fields or fly inland when wind and rain are near; swallows fly low and skim the water, and the robin broods melancholy in the bush or seeks the shelter of a neighboring roof. These are only a few of the many creatures of the fields and the air which enable a man who has eyes to see to forecast the weather during the next few hours. The explanation of all this is to be found in the exceeding sensitiveness of most animals, especially those which are more or less wild, to atmospherical conditions. They are all constantly making forecasts after their own manner, and, as we have hinted, they are far more trustworthy than any devices of man toward this end.

Several ingenious attempts have recently been made to turn this unfeeling instinct to some commercial use. A number of very unique living barometers have been put upon the market. The cheapest, and the one which will probably become the most popular, is the frog barometer. A small green frog is found in Germany which always comes out of the water when cold or wet weather is approaching. These frogs are caught and kept in glass jars furnished with a tiny ladder and half filled with water. The frog weather prophet sits high and dry on the top of his ladder for several hours before a storm and climbs down to the bottom when the weather is to be fair and clear. Other remarkable weather prophets are leeches, and we have heard of a old meteorologist who adjusted his barometer in such a way that the leeches would ring a little bell whenever a storm was approaching and would remain silent when the weather was fair or setting fair. These creatures will also indicate the weather in the same way as the green frog referred to. If kept in a jar filled with water, they will climb up the sides when it is about to rain and gather round the top.—London Standard.

PRISONER OF HIS FEARS.

Sultan Has Fifty Beds and Lets No One Know Which He'll Occupy.

"The 'commander of the faithful' is of middling stature, rather under than over the average, and of weakly constitution. His countenance has no wicked expression. It is of the Circassian type from the mother's side, but bearing the marks of degeneration. The eyes are haggard, the forehead insignificant and narrow, the eyebrows very thick, forming two great arcs, which coalesce. The large nose dominates the whole physiognomy and is slightly inclined to one side at the lower extremity. The mouth is large, the lips thick. The sultan wears his beard long, and care has sprinkled his hair and beard with silver within the last few years. It is a family tradition among the heirs of Osman to speak in a loud voice. Abdul Hamid's utterance is strident and imperious. It is the voice of a master addressing those whom he regards as his slaves."

Ever since he has been on the throne Abdul Hamid has rarely gone to bed at night to rise in the morning like an ordinary mortal. He seldom retires until dawn, but rises again at 8 o'clock, having spent the night hard at work listening to reports and attending to the affairs of state. When he has nothing else to do, he reads French detective stories, for he has an all pervading idea that conspiracies are being hatched against him, and passes his time circumventing an imaginary conspirator. Nobody knows where he will spend any part of the day or evening. Often he enters a building, and, while the sentries at the door believe that he is inside, he has gone by a back door and to some other building. Moreover, in whatever part of the palace he may be, there is a permanent service of surveillance day and night, and he is constantly accompanied by a score of persons, who organize a special service in the building or apartment where he happens to be for the moment.

Where the sultan will sleep is never known. He possesses more than 50 beds in the different parts of the palace, and these bedrooms are separated from the rest of the edifice by iron doors and furnished with most ingenious and complicated locks. Two superb St. Bernards also sleep outside the door of the apartment in which the sultan may be sleeping, for he knows that four footed guardians cannot be tampered with. Formerly the members of the imperial harem used to move about among the numerous palaces on the Bosphorus, but Abdul Hamid put a stop to it. The ladies of the harem never have the benefit of a change of air. Their palace is their prison, and nowhere does phthisis claim so many victims as in the harem of Yildiz.—Contemporary Review

FIELD DIVERSIONS.

A Federal Officer Who Read Novels Between Engagements.

General Horace Porter tells the following anecdote in his "Campaigning With Grant" in The Century: During the ten days of battle through which we had just passed very little relief, physical or mental, had been obtained, but there was one staff officer, a Colonel B—, who often came as bearer of messages to our headquarters, who always managed to console himself with novel reading, and his peculiarity in this respect became a standing joke among those who knew him. He went about with his saddle bags stuffed full of thrilling romances, and was seen several times sitting on his horse, under a brisk fire, poring over the last pages of an absorbing volume to reach the denouement of the plot and evincing a greater curiosity to find how the hero and the heroine were going to be extricated from the entangled dilemma into which they had been plunged by the unsympathetic author than to learn the result of the surrounding battle.

One of his peculiarities was that he took it for granted that all the people he met were perfectly familiar with his line of literature, and he talked about nothing but the merits of the latest novel. For the last week he had been devouring Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables." It was an English translation, for the officer had no knowledge of French. As he was passing a house in rear of the "angle" he saw a young lady seated on the porch, and, stopping his horse, bowed to her with all the grace of a Chesterfield and endeavored to engage her in conversation. Before he had gone far he took occasion to remark, "By the way, have you seen 'Les Miserables?'" anglicizing the pronunciation. Her black eyes snapped with indignation as she tartly replied: "Don't you talk to me that way. They are a good deal better than Grant's miseries anyhow!" This was retold so often by those who heard it that, for some time after, its repetition seriously endangered the colonel's peace of mind.

SHOT THROUGH JEALOUSY.

Shoots a Girl and Fires at an Officer, Who Kills Him.

CAIRO, Ill., June 7.—Richard Caldwell of Memphis shot and killed Mary Jenkins because he was jealous of the favors she had bestowed on others. Immediately after the shooting he fled to a lumber yard back of town, where he was found two hours later by the officers. He was ordered out with some difficulty, when he opened fire on the officers.

His first shot passed through the wrist of Deputy Sheriff George W. Moore, who returned the fire, killing Caldwell instantly. Moore was acquitted of all claim by a coroner's jury.

Defaulting Bank President Suicides.

OCALA, Fla., June 7.—R. B. McConnell, the defaulting president of the defunct Mechanics' National bank, has committed suicide. A warrant was issued for his arrest and placed in the hands of Deputy United States Marshal James Clark, who proceeded to the McConnell residence. When McConnell heard the warrant he excused himself to get his coat and hat, went upstairs and shot himself.

The Divine Healer Dead.

EL PASO, Tex., June 7.—Francis Schlatter, who claims to perform miraculous cures by divine power, was recently found dead in the foothills of Sierra Madre, 35 miles southwest of Casa Grande, in the state of Chihuahua, Mexico. He had been fasting and apparently starved to death. While in Denver, from Aug. 22 to Nov. 13, 1895, about 200,000 people visited Schlatter to receive treatment.

Steamer Sent Assistance.

BOSTON, June 7.—The steamer Orin left today for St. Lucia, where the steamer Ethelgonda went ashore Wednesday while on a voyage from Buenos Ayres for this port. The steamer will take out three sets of submarine divers, steam pumps, in fact a whole set of wrecking gear. The Ethelgonda's cargo is principally wool, and is said to be insured in Boston offices for $500,000.

Entertained W. J. Bryan.

MONTREAL, June 7.—W. J. Bryan, who has been resting here for a day after his lecture here attended the American Presbyterian church, and was afterward entertained at lunch by George W. Stephens, M. P., a millionaire lawyer and politician. Mr. Bryan was driven around the city by the Knights of Pythias and left for Ottawa to-day.

Much Satisfaction In Havana.

HAVANA, June 7.—In political circles and among the Spanish general public, where a feeling of acute anxiety had existed as to the outcome of the cabinet crisis in Madrid, keen satisfaction is expressed at the news that Senor Canovas has received fresh proof of confidence from the crown. Senor Jose Congosto, the Spanish representative on the Ruiz investigating committee, has sailed for New York.

TRIED TO ANNOY HER.

Ex-Mayor Magowan and His Sons Get Into a Disturbance.

TRENTON, June 7.—People residing in the neighborhood of ex-Mayor Frank A. Magowan's colonial mansion were awakened about midnight Saturday night by a disturbance in which the ex-mayor, his two boys and a policeman were the central figures. Mrs. Magowan and her children live next door to the house occupied by the ex-mayor and Mrs. Barnes. It is claimed that Magowan and Mrs. Barnes walked past the house where Mrs. Magowan and her children reside an unusual number of times.

The boys believed it was done with the deliberate purpose of annoying their mother. They began to shout at Magowan and told him to take Mrs. Barnes into the house and, it is said, made uncomplimentary remarks about her.

Magowan walked into the yard of his former wife's house after the boys. They ran into the house. Meanwhile Mrs. Magowan sent for a policeman and ordered the arrest of the ex-mayor. The latter ordered the policeman to arrest the boys, but the policeman declined to do either without a warrant. There is talk of warrants being issued.

To Operate Like South African Co.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 7.—Eli A. Gage, manager of the North American Transportation and Trading company, is in Seattle on his way to the company's trading posts on the Yukon. To your correspondent he said that a chartered British company is proposing to operate on the Yukon on the same plan and scale as that of the famous Chartered South African company. It proposes to build and govern towns and cities, maintain a force of soldiers, operate mines, build steamships, etc. The company is admitted to have millions of money back of it.

Cuban Correspondent Released.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., June 7.—A telegram received here says Wendell Phillips the Cuban war correspondent of the London Chronicle, has been, with several other newspaper men, released from prison at Motanzo, where he has been confined ten days, on condition that he will leave Cuba and never return. Phillips avoided Spanish censorship by sending his letters to the Chronicle through the British consul at Havana. During his trial he was defended by British counsel.

A Prominent Lawyer Dead

SALEM, N. Y., June 7.—James Gibson, one of the most prominent lawyers of northern New York, has died at his home here, aged 80 years. He had held many offices of trust and was a prominent Mason.

WILD SCENE OF DISORDER.

PARIS, June 7.—The scene in the chamber of deputies on Saturday during the Jaures incident, when M. Brisson, president of the chamber, suspended the sitting and sent for the military guard to remove M. Richard, the Socialist deputy, who had referred to some of his colleagues as "police spies," was one of unswayed scandal and violence. M. Brisson, after business was resumed, declined to hear Jaures, who interpellated the government on what he called an "attempt to muzzle a deputy," basing his refusal on the ground that no notice of interpellation had been given.

A furious uproar followed. M. Brisson was pale with anger, but kept himself well under control. Never in the bitterest invective employed against an Opportunist minister by demagogues of the Extreme Left was there greater violence than in the language of which M. Brisson, who owes his seat largely to the Socialist vote, was the unjust object.

"Eas, Brisson," canaille de Brisson." "Mort a Brisson." "Miserable reactionary, you will never be president, traitor that you are." "Old rascal, resign, resign."

These are fair samples of the epithets which the entire Socialist party, standing on the floor of the senate, hurled at the president, while he, unable to maintain order, brought the sitting to an abrupt close.

Three Persons Drowned.

LONDON, June 7.—The British tank steamer Aral, from New York for Dover, collided with and sunk the schooner Pearl, bound from London for Port Talbot, off Wolf rock. The captain's wife and two of the crew of the Pearl were drowned. The captain and two members of the crew have been landed at Salcombe.

Cloakmakers Organize For a Strike.

NEW YORK, June 7.—The United Brotherhood of Cloakmakers had a busy day. Secret meeting were held in assembly rooms scattered through the East Side to organize the 12,000 cloakmakers in New York and vicinity preliminary to a strike. Secretary Braff of the organization said that there are now 6,000 enrolled members in the union and that in less than a week he expects all will have joined. There are about 4,000 organized women who will be affected if the strike goes into effect on schedule time.

Two Steamers Collide.

LONDON, June 7.—The steamers Bittern and Ystroom, both bound for Amsterdam, collided in the Thames. The Ystroom foundered, two of her passengers being drowned. The remainder of her passengers and her crew were taken on board the Bittern, which was damaged. The Bittern's second officer and carpenter were drowned.

SHOT THROUGH JEALOUSY.

Shoots a Girl and Fires at an Officer,
Who Kills Him.

CAIRO, Ill., June 7.—Richard Caldwell of Memphis shot and killed Mary Jenkins because he was jealous of the favors she had bestowed on others. Immediately after the shooting he fled to a lumber yard back of town, where he was found two hours later by the officers. He was ordered out with some difficulty, when he opened fire on the officers.

His first shot passed through the wrist of Deputy Sheriff George W.
Moore, who returned the fire, killing Caldwell instantly. Moore was acquitted of all claim by a coroner's jury.

Defaulting Bank President Suicides.

OCALA, Fla., June 7.—R. B. McConnell, the defaulting president of the defunct Mechanics' National bank, has committed suicide. A warrant was issued for his arrest and placed in the hands of Deputy United States Marshal James Clark, who proceeded to the McConnell residence. When Mc-Connell heard the warrant he excused himself to get his coat and hat, went upstairs and shot himself.

The Divine Healer Dead.

EL PASO, Tex., June 7.—Francis Schletter, who claims to perform miraculous cures by divine power, was recently found dead in the foothills of Sierra Madre, 35 miles southwest of Casa Grande, in the state of Chihuahua, Mexico. He had been fasting and apparently starved to death. While in Denver, from Aug. 22 to Nov. 13, 1895, about 200,000 people visited Schlatter
to receive treatment.

Steamer Sent Assistance.

BOSTON, June 7.—The steamer Orin left today for St. Lucia, where the steamer Ethelgonda went ashore Wednesday while on a voyage from Buenos Ayres for this port. The steamer will take out three sets of submarine divers, steam pumps, in fact a whole set of wrecking gear. The Ethelgonda's cargo is principally wool, and is said to be insured in Boston offices for $500,000.

Entertained W. J. Bryan.

MONTREAL, June 7.—W. J. Bryan, who has been resting here for a day after his lecture here attended the American Presbyterian church, and was afterward entertained at lunch by George W. Stephens, M. P., a millionaire lawyer and politician. Mr. Bryan was driven around the city by the Knights of Pythias and left for Ottawa to-day.

Much Satisfaction in Havana.

HAVANA, June 7.—In political circles and among the Spanish general public, where a feeling of acute anxiety had existed as to the outcome of the cabinet caisis in Madrid, keen satisfaction is expressed at the news that Senor Cano-vas has received fresh proof of confidence from the crown. Senor Jose Congosto, the Spanish representative on the Ruiz investigating committee, has sailed for New York.

TRIED TO ANNOY HER.

Ex-Mayor Magowan and His Sons Get Into a Disturbance.

TRENTON, June 7.—People residing in the neighborhood of ex-Mayor Frank A. Magowan's colonial mansion were wakened about midnight Saturday night by a disturbance in which the ex-mayor, his two boys and a policeman were the central figures. Mrs. Magowan and her children live next door to the house occupied by the ex-mayor and Mrs. Barnes. It is claimed that Magowan and Mrs. Barnes walked past the house where Mrs. Magowan and her children reside an unusual number of times.

The boys believed it was done with the deliberate purpose of annoying their mother. They began to shout at Magowan and told him to take Mrs.
Barnes into the house and, it is said, made uncomplimentary remarks about her.

Magowan walked into the yard of his former wife's house after the boys.
They ran into the house. Meanwhile Mrs. Magowan sent for a policeman and ordered the arrest of the ex-mayor.
The latter ordered the policeman to arrest the boys, but the policeman declined to do either without a warrant.
There is talk of warrants being issued.

To Operate Like South African Co.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 7.—Eli A.
Gage, manager of the North American Transportation and Trading company, is in Seattle on his way to the company's trading posts on the Yukon. To your correspondent he said that a chartered British company is proposing to operate on the Yukon on the same plan and scale as that of the famous Chartered South African company. It proposes to build and govern towns and cities, maintain a force of soldiers, operate mines, build steamships, etc. The company is admitted to have millions of money back of it.

Cuban Correspondent Released.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., June 7.—A telegram received here says Wendell Phillips the Cuban war correspondent of the London Chronicle, has been, with several other newspaper men, released from prison at Motanzo, where he has been confined ten days, on condition that he will leave Cuba and never return. Phillips avoided Spanish censorship by sending his letters to the Chronicle through the British consul at Havana. During his trial he was defended by British counsel.

SALEM, N. Y., June 7.—James Gibson, one of the most prominent lawyers of northern New York, has died at his home here, aged 80 years. He had held many offices of trust and was a prominent Mason.

WILD SCENE OF DISORDER.

Sitting of Chamber of Deputies Brought to an Abrupt Close.

PARIS, June 7.—The scene in the chamber of deputies on Saturday during the Jaures incident, when M. Bris-son, president of the chamber, suspended the sitting and sent for the military guard to remove M. Richard, the Socialist deputy, who had referred to some of his colleagues as "police spies," was one of unwonted scandal and violence. M. Brisson, after business was resumed, declined to hear Jaures, who interpellated the government on what he called an "attempt to muzzle a deputy," basing his refusal on the ground that no notice of interpellation had been given.

A furious uproar followed. M. Bris-son was pale with anger, but kept himself well under control. Never in the bitterest invective employed against an Opportunist minister by demagogues of the Extreme Left was there greater violence than in the language of which M.
Brisson, who owes his seat largely to the Socialist vote, was the unjust object.

"Bas, Brisson," canaille de Brisson."
"Mort a Brisson." "Miserable reactionary, you will never be president, traitor that you are." "Old rascal, resign, resign."

These are fair samples of the epithets which the entire Socialist party, standing on the floor of the senate, hurled at the president, while he, unable to maintain order, brought the sitting to an abrupt close.

Three Persons Drowned.

LONDON, June 7.—The British tank steamer Aral, from New York for Dover, collided with and sunk the schooner Pearl, bound from London for Port Talbot, off Wolf rock. The captain's wife and two of the crew of the Pearl were drowned. The captain and two members of the crew have been landed at Salcombe.

Cloakmakers Organize For a Strike.

NEW YORK, June 7.—The United Brotherhood of Cloakmakers had a busy day. Secret meeting were held in assembly rooms scattered throughout the East Side to organize the 12,000 cloakmakers in New York and vicinity preliminary to a strike. Secretary Bruff of the organization said that there are now 6,000 enrolled members in the union and that in less than a week he expects all will have joined.
There are about 4,000 organized women who will be affected if the strike goes into effect on schedule time.

Two Steamers Collide.

LONDON, June 7.—The steamers Bittern and Ystroom, both bound for Amsterdam, collided in the Thames. The Ystroom foundered, two of her passengers being drowned. The remainder of her passengers and her crew were taken on board the Bittern, which was damaged. The Bittern's second officer and carpenter were drowned.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., MONDAY, JUNE 7.

INDICATIONS point to the greatest grain crop in the history of the west, adding another factor to the prosperity so soon to come.

THE man who is not for Bryan is against him, according to the boy orator's managers. That's a mighty poor way to win in politics.

JOHN R. MCLEAN has taken up his abode in Cincinnati. He will remain until convinced that he cannot be the successor of Mr. Hanna, when he will return to his home in Washington.

WHEN HON. M. A. Hanna is endorsed by the Toledo convention for senator, the action will be but the repetition of what has been done by county conventions throughout the state. It will follow precedent.

A VAST number of mills and factories, idle since being affected by the blight of Wilson's bill, were started during May. There will be more in June, and before the end of the summer a general resumption can be expected.

MAJOR DICK, who is here for the purpose of looking after the campaign, says that in the coming campaign President McKinley will be on trial. From his cheerful utterances it is evident the major believes the verdict will be one of acquittal.

If the statesmen Ohio employs every year at great expense to the commonwealth would pay more attention to the real wants of the public and less to their own benefit, the people could not say, as do the citizens of Urbana, "We would not have lynched Mitchell if the law imposed the death sentence."

MR. BRYAN is not a favorite with the silver mine owners who have put so much money in the effort to secure favorable legislation. In him they can see no prospect for victory. They want some other man, and it is highly probable some other man will head the next national Democratic ticket.

CONGRESS can cover itself all over with glory by throwing out the sugar schedule as it appears today and substituting something which the average man can understand. As long as the influence of the trust can surround that particular part of the tariff with mystery, so long will the breath of scandal taint the senate.

MONEY AND POLITICS.

Since the first of the year the charge has been frequently and boldly made that almost every state legislature in session during that time has been the tool of those people who possessed the money in sufficient quantity to buy its influence and power. Thieving combinations and robbing institutions have asked favors which only some undue influence could purchase, while legitimate legislation and revenue provisions have been forgotten in the wild rush for boodle. Doubtless much of this information is incorrect and the stories are exaggerated, but where there is so much smoke it cannot but blacken someone. There is a remedy for this evil, this scamper to exchange public property for private gold. It lies directly in the hands of the people, and should be used. Change the personnel of legislatures. Send men of tried integrity to the state capital. Put the power of a commonwealth only in the hands of those who can look with scorn upon the tempter, and, turning his back, do that which he knows to be his duty.

A SAD CASE AT TORONTO

The Boy Worked During the Morning, and Going Home Swallowed Enough Carbolic Acid to Kill Him Within Ten Minutes. Left a Long Letter.

TORONTO, June 7.—[Special]—Edward Reynolds, a well-known young man of this place, committed suicide Sunday afternoon by swallowing carbolic acid. He died within 10 minutes.

Reynolds has been employed at the Forest City Sewer Pipe works for some time, and worked there almost all of the morning. Soon after reaching home he drank the carbolic acid, and died in a short time. Before committing the deed Reynolds wrote a long letter in which he told the story of his troubles. The letter has not been given out, but it is understood that he had been jilted by a young woman, and it prayed so upon his mind that he decided to die. Every effort was made to save his life, but with no avail. Reynolds was 19 years old. He and the young woman are known in East Liverpool, where they have a number of friends.

ROCK POINT PICNIC

Under Auspices of the Young People of the F. P. Church.

Don't miss this rich treat at Rock Point, one of the finest picnic grounds in all the land. A very delightful time is assured you. Take your lady friends. The train will leave East Liverpool tomorrow morning, Tuesday, June 8, at 8 o'clock, city time, returning, leave Rock Point at 6:30. You are cordially invited.

Mixed the Tickets.

Saturday evening a well-known lady of the city, accompanied by her daughter, appeared at the opera house and presented, as she supposed, two admission tickets. The man at the door and the lady herself were surprised, upon examination, that they were milk tickets, and the regular tickets had been left at home. The lady smiled but enjoyed the joke as heartily as anyone.

Some of the Sick.

S. H. Porter is seriously ill at his home in Seventh street.

William Anderson, who has been dangerously ill at his home in Lisbon street, is slowly recovering.

A telephone message received today from Allegheny states that Secretary Charles is as well as could be expected, and is suffering from a mild attack of typhoid fever.

Mrs. C. B. Ogden is confined to her home by illness.

Cases In Court.

J. R. Bagley has commenced action against Robert Turner for $21.91. The case will be heard tomorrow.

Edward Starr sues Park Orr to recover $175, and Adaline Orr, of St. Clair township, has commenced a forcible detention case against Oscar Starr.

The Team Ran Away.

A team of horses owned by F. M. Fountts became frightened at the freight station this afternoon during the storm and ran off. The wagon collided with a tree, broke the tongue and was otherwise damaged. The driver escaped injury.

Won a Race.

The road race given by the East End Athletic club Saturday last was won by Charles Herbert. The route was from Smith's Ferry to the club house, and was covered in about 23 minutes. The prize was a gold medal.

Joined a Circus.

When Norton's circus was here a few weeks ago Dal Stewart and Will Riding gave a three round boxing bout, and the manager was so pleased that they were engaged. They will join the circus at Youngstown today.

Suspended Sentence.

John Coburn, one of the Liverpool men arrested in Steubenville for stealing chickens, has been released. His fine was paid, and Mayor Riley suspended the workhouse sentence.

Addressed a Large Audience.

Professor Sickleman, an Armenian, addressed a large audience at the First M. E. church last night. During the evening Miss Alice Goodwin rendered two solos in an able manner.

Train leaves for Rock Point Tuesday, June 8, at 8 o'clock, city time.

Stories of Prinsep.

Mr. Valentine Prinsep, the well known English artist, is a very jolly Briton indeed, and is fond of telling amusing stories about himself and his profession. Even his name proves a source of mirth, and he likes to relate the blunders its oddity has occasioned. Once, when going to dine at a fashionable mansion, he was accosted by the butler:

"What name, sir?"

"Prinsep."

Great was the big artist's amusement when he was then announced loudly and pompously as Prince Hepp!

Mr. Prinsep's favorite anecdote is one often told, but always good, of which he claims to be the original narrator. Moreover, it is a true one. An old country couple, so he relates, had strayed into the Manchester Art gallery, catalogue in hand, and were wandering from room to room looking at the pictures, which were numbered anew, one, two, three and so on in each division, instead of continuously throughout the whole exhibition. The two old people stopped in awe and admiration before Madox Brown's heroic picture, the "Death of King Lear."

"Wha's this un, Jinny?" asked the old man.

"A'll see, Jarge, A'll see, ef ye'll give me a minute."

The old lady hastily turned to the catalogue division of another room, and read off the number corresponding to that of the picture before them. It chanced to be that of Landseer's famous picture of a collie fallen over a cliff, and just reached by the anxious shepherd, who calls the result of his examination of the poor beast's injuries to his comrades on the rocks above. She read off the title of the picture to her husband:

"There's Life In the Old Dog Yet."

Looking compassionately on the pictured form of the aged and forsaken king, Jarge failed to perceive anything wrong in the name.

"So there is, gal, so there is!" he exclaimed, in a burst of pity; adding, with dropped voice and a shake of the head at Lear, "but not much, not much!"—Youth's Companion.

The Plow.

Plowing was undoubtedly first done with a forked stick, the long arm being harnessed, in some primitive way, to an ox or team of oxen, and the short arm pointed for the purpose of penetrating the ground. The plow is one of the oldest of agricultural implements, and it is a curious fact that in oriental countries the same kind of plow is used now as was described by the writers of 2,000 years ago. The plow represented on the Egyptian monuments of 3000 B. C. may be seen in the valley of the Nile today. Our patent office has over 10,000 models of plows. In Egypt, Syria and India there is but one, and that the one which has been in use for thousands of years. The plow described by Virgil, 31 B. C., is in use in many country districts of Italy today. In 1618 patents were taken out by David Ramsay and Thomas Wildgoose for "engines to plow grounds, whether inland or upland." In the Scriptures plowing with different kinds of animals hitched together was forbidden on account of the cruelty involved by the unequal draft imposed upon animals of different sizes working in the same harness. In China the plow is a sacred implement, and models are consecrated in the temples of the gods. As early as 1649 steam plows were patented in the United States.

Not an Agnostic.

A colored gentleman who occupies the proud position of janitor in a public building has as his guest an uncle, who is a Baptist minister in a Georgia town.

"Uncle Mose," said the nephew, "de reason why I hab done got ter de top ob de wurl is dat I don't taik no stock in dem foolishness dat I used ter hab down in Georgy. Now all dem signs an superstitionistic notions am done gone."

"I dunno, Dave," said the reverend uncle. "I hope yo' ain done los' none ob yo' 'ligion, while disquisitioning wid de white folks. Ob co'se, I don' belebe in no signs dat ain 'cordin ter Scriptur, but dey is sumpfn 'bout dem. Now, dar am de lef' hin foot ob de grabeya'd rabbit."

"I didn' mean no sich ting as dat, Uncle Mose," interrupted the nephew. "I mean dem signs an superstitions. Ob co'se, de lef' hin foot ob de grabeya'd rabbit brings luck. Eberybody knows dat, but dat ain no sign, jess a fac', laik if a dawg crosses yo' path some one gwine do yo' wrong, or anything dat ebery man knows am so."

"Glad ter heah yo' say dat, Dave. I was sure 'fraid yo' got ter be one o' dem agnostics," replied the uncle.—Washington Star.

Won't Find Him.

"Buy your wheel from me, sir," said an enterprising dealer to a prospective customer, "and I will make you a present of a cyclometer."

"You are not the man I am looking for," replied the shopper. "I am trying to find a seller of cyclometers who will throw in a bicycle."—Harper's Bazar.

It is a strange fact that the right hand, which is more sensible to the touch than the left, is less sensible than the latter to the effect of heat or cold.

Stories of Prinsep.

Mr. Valentine Prinsep, the well known English artist, is a very jolly Briton indeed, and is fond of telling amusing stories about himself and his profession. Even his name proves a source of mirth, and he likes to relate the blunders its oddity has occasioned. Once, when going to dine at a fashionable mansion, he was accosted by the butler:

"What name, sir?"

"Prinsep."

Great was the big artist's amusement when he was then announced loudly and pompously as Prince Hepp!

Mr. Prinsep's favorite anecdote is one often told, but always good, of which he claims to be the original narrator. Moreover, it is a true one. An old country couple, so he relates, had strayed into the Manchester Art gallery, catalogue in hand, and were wandering from room to room looking at the pictures, which were numbered anew, one, two, three and so on in each division, instead of continuously throughout the whole exhibition. The two old people stopped in awe and admiration before Madox Brown's heroic picture, the "Death of King Lear."

"What's this un, Jinny?" asked the old man.

"A'll see, Jarge, A'll see, ef ye'll give me a minute."

The old lady hastily turned to the catalogue division of another room, and read off the number corresponding to that of the picture before them. It chanced to be that of Landseer's famous picture of a collie fallen over a cliff, and just reached by the anxious shepherd, who calls the result of his examination of the poor beast's injuries to his comrades on the rocks above. She read off the title of the picture to her husband:

"There's Life in the Old Dog Yet."

Looking compassionately on the pictured form of the aged and forsaken king, Jarge failed to perceive anything wrong in the name.

"So there is, gal, so there is!" he exclaimed, in a burst of pity; adding, with dropped voice and a shake of the head at Lear, "but not much, not much!"—Youth's Companion.

The Plow.

Plowing was undoubtedly first done with a forked stick, the long arm being harnessed, in some primitive way, to an ox or team of oxen, and the short arm pointed for the purpose of penetrating the ground. The plow is one of the oldest of agricultural implements, and it is a curious fact that in oriental countries the same kind of plow is used now as was described by the writers of 2,000 years ago. The plow represented on the Egyptian monuments of 3000 B. C. may be seen in the valley of the Nile today. Our patent office has over 10,000 models of plows. In Egypt, Syria and India there is but one, and that the one which has been in use for thousands of years. The plow described by Virgil, 31 B. C., is in use in many country districts of Italy today. In 1618 patents were taken out by David Ramsay and Thomas Wildgoose for "engines to plow grounds, whether inland or upland." In the Scriptures plowing with different kinds of animals hitched together was forbidden on account of the cruelty involved by the unequal draft imposed upon animals of different sizes working in the same harness. In China the plow is a sacred implement, and models are consecrated in the temples of the gods. As early as 1649 steam plows were patented in the United States.

Not an Agnostic.

A colored gentleman who occupies the proud position of janitor in a public building has as his guest an uncle, who is a Baptist minister in a Georgia town.

"Uncle Mose," said the nephew, "de reason why I hab done got ter de top ob de wurl is dat I don't talk no stock in dem foolishness dat I used ter hab down in Georgy. Now all dem signs an superstitionistic notions am done gone."

"I dunno, Dave," said the reverend uncle. "I hope yo' ain done los' none ob yo' 'ligion, while disquisitioning wid de white folks. Ob co'se, I don't belebe in no signs dat ain 'cordin ter Scriptur, but dey is sumpin 'bout dem. Now, dar am de lef' hin foot ob de grabeya'd rabbit."

"I didn't mean no sich ting as dat, Uncle Mose," interrupted the nephew. "I mean dem signs an superstitions. Ob co'se, de lef' hin foot ob de grabeya'd rabbit brings luck. Eberybody knows dat, but dat ain no sign, jess a fae', laik if a dawg crosses yo' path some one gwine do yo' wrong, or anything dat ebery man knows am so."

"Glad ter heah yo' say dat, Dave. I was sure 'fraid yo' got ter be one o' dem agnostics," replied the uncle.—Washington Star.

Won't Find Him.

"Buy your wheel from me, sir," said an enterprising dealer to a prospective customer, "and I will make you a present of a cyclometer."

"You are not the man I am looking for," replied the shopper. "I am trying to find a seller of cyclometers who will throw in a bicycle."—Harper's Bazar.

It is a strange fact that the right hand, which is more sensible to the touch than the left, is less sensible than the latter to the effect of heat or cold.

CUT A GIRL'S DRESS

The Slasher With His Knife Is Out Again.

HE CAUGHT HER IN A CROWD

The Old Tactics Which Resulted In the Ruin of So Many Garments During the Past Few Years Were Used on Saturday Night.

Jack the Slasher has again made his appearance in the city, but it is hoped his existence will be short lived.

Saturday evening, shortly after the performance at the Grand, and while the crowd was in Sixth street, one little girl had her dress completely ruined. The deed was not noticed at once, but in a short time after the girl had left the crowded thoroughfare the discovery was made.

All efforts today to locate the party suffering from the work of the scoundrel were unsuccessful. He has not been heard from for several months, but he again bids fair to become a nuisance. Parties interested in catching the scoundrel should keep their eyes open when in a crowd, and it is possible the fellow can be located.

THE STORM.

It Flooded Cellars and Did Some Damage.

The first heavy thunder storm of the season passed over the city this afternoon, and succeeded in doing some damage. A flood came down Calcutta road, and going over the hill near Walnut street swept through more than one basement, leaving a deposit of mud. Houses in Wucherer addition were flooded.

Tanyard run was higher than it has been for some time, and a great quantity of garbage and filth along its banks were swept away.

The flood which came down Jethro hollow was so great that it seriously washed the foundation of the trestle. It was deemed too dangerous for passengers to cross, and passengers were transferred until the damage could be repaired.

The storm raged with great violence in the country north of the city, Salem and Lisbon witnessing a wonderful electrical display. The telephone service was hampered to a considerable degree.

The water which came down College and Walnut streets brought sufficient mud to pile it high on the Chester street car track.

WILL LEAD THE MACCABEES.

New Officers Who Will Look After the Order.

The Maccabees at their last meeting elected the following officers: Past commander, Homer C. Owens; commander, J. F. Grosscross; lieutenant commander, John Taylor; record keeper, George Wucherer; finance keeper, E. C. Adams; chaplain S. H. Campbell; sergeant, Sol Overdorf; master at arms, Leon Rich; Guard, George C. Potter; sentinel, C. H. Ale; picket, S. D. Laferré; Trustee, E. S. Johnson.

OUT ON THE HILLS.

Beer and Cards Were Popular Amusements.

Beer and cards were the favorite amusements out on the hills yesterday, the parties being careful to go beyond the city limits. On the Calcutta road several parties enjoyed the afternoon, and the banks of the Little Beaver were lined with carousing excursionists. Many farmers in the city today complained bitterly.

SENT THEM A LETTER.

Ministers Take Action on the Sunday Concert Question.

The ministers met Saturday afternoon and again this morning to take some action in regard to the Sunday concerts being given at Rock Spring park. It was decided to send the park owners a communication, but the pastors would not divulge its contents, hoping that the matter might be adjusted without difficulty.

LOCATING BODIES.

The Cemetery Trustees Have to Move Them Soon.

Work was commenced this morning moving the bodies from the old cemetery. It is hard work to locate many of them, as the mounds are in many cases not over the bodies, but several feet away from them. John Golden spent the entire morning trying to locate four bodies, but met with no success.

Two Young Women Fought.

Residents of Jackson street this morning were treated to a scene not down on the program. Two young women, who have until recently been the best of friends, engaged in a war of words. They finally came to blows, and only the intervention of the neighbors prevented farther trouble.

URGING THE TARIFF.

Petitions Will Be Sent to Ohio's Senators.

Three petitions are being circulated in the city urging Senator Foraker and Senator Hanna to use all their influence to have the tariff passed as soon as possible. The petitions are being liberally signed, and in a few days will be sent to Washington. Justice Hill, correspondent of the Tariff League, has in his possession a number of postal cards already written and directed to the senators. Anyone desiring to send a personal request will be provided with a card by calling at his office.

Two Accidents.

Charles Goodwin, while riding his wheel on Fifth street at noon today, came in contact with a farmer's wagon, and damaged his wheel somewhat.

J. E. Beatty met a similar accident, and, besides breaking his bike, hurt his foot.

A Party of Wheelers.

A party of bicyclists including Miss Martha Morgan, Miss Nannie Murler, Mr. J. R. Tagoon, and Mr. T. R. Phillis, of the Beaver Star, rode to this city yesterday and returned on the Kanawha.

Gave a Contract.

Burford Brothers awarded the contract for the steam fitting of the new plant to Sutton & Morley Saturday evening. There were two bidders. Consideration private.

Collected More Money.

Over $145 were raised by the Sabbath school classes of the Christian church, yesterday, for the building fund. This is the second largest collection of the school so far this year.

A Pleasant Day.

Fearing that the rain would reduce the number of excursionists to Rock Point tomorrow, F. W. Fowler secured an advance weather prediction from Columbus. It will be a fair day.

Exchanged Pulpits.

Prof. O. S. Reed delivered two excellent sermons at the Christian church in Wellsville yesterday. His pulpit here was equally well filled by Reverend Bowers.

An Infant Dead.

An infant child of Mr. and Mrs. John Oliver died yesterday at their home in Sixth street. The funeral took place this afternoon, and interment was made at Riverview.

We Grow.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell, Market street—a son.
Born to Mr. and Mrs. John McNicol, Fifth street—a daughter.

Getting Better.

Carl, the nine-year-old son of Harvey Thompson, of Lincoln avenue, is now able to sit up. He has had typhoid fever and has been ill about eight weeks.

Freight Shipments.

Fourteen cars were shipped from the local freight sheds, Saturday last, and ten were unloaded. Outbound shipments today were light.

Queen City Launched.

The Queen City, launched at Cincinnati, last Saturday, will pass this port June 16, provided there is enough water.

Grand opening at Ellwood Bunting's ice cream parlor, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, June 9 and 10, Wellsville, Ohio.

A Fast Horse.

Ben Davidson has purchased a fast pacer with a mark of 2:20. It is probable the animal will be tracked.

An Appraisalment.

The property owned by Margaret Welch will be appraised June 17 by Sheriff Gill.

No Arrests.

The police were quiet Saturday night and yesterday. No arrests were made.

Inspecting Lines.

Manager Swaney, of the telephone company, left today to inspect the lines between Wellsville and Lisbon.

Don't you miss the picnic at Rock Point, June 8.

SHE SIGNED THE PAPER

But Mrs. Lutton Did Not Clearly Understand

THAT IT DEPRIVED HER OF LAND

After Her Father Died She Was Asked to Sell Her Interest In His Estate, and She Will Fight the Case In Court—Also After Other Property.

Mrs. John Lutton, of Avondale street, is about to leave for Grafton, W. Va., to attempt to secure her rights under a will left by her father, William H. Keener. Some time ago a person representing to be a lawyer from Grafton called upon Mrs. Lutton and asked if she would sell her right to her father's farm for $150. She consulted her husband, and finally told the individual she was satisfied. He drew up some papers and gave her $20 as part payment on the deal. Nothing has been heard of him since. Last evening Mrs. Lutton received word from that place calling her attention to the will, and that it was now before the court for settlement.

As Mrs. Lutton's grandfather has died recently, she will also look after some land left by him. There are four heirs.

The United States Engineers
Will Resume Work

ON THE SURVEY OF THE RIVER

They Will Start at Industry, and Expect to Be Here Before the End of July—The Boat Is Being Cleaned and Renovatated.

The work of surveying the Ohio will be resumed bright and early next Monday morning.

When the lines were tied up last fall
the engineers left Industry, and the comfortable boat in which they live was brought to this city and moored at the foot of Market street. There it has remained in charge of a watchman.

The party have meantime been doing office work in Cincinnati. As it was impossible to make headway when the water was high, Captain Jones, the officer in charge of the survey, decided last Saturday to begin June 14. A force of men were brought here from Cincinnati, and are now engaged in renovating the boat and preparing it for the reception of the engineers. Watchman
W. W. Culbard has gone to Cincinnati, but will return on the United States steamer Edna next Saturday.

The survey is being made under an order from the war department, $25,000
having been appropriated by the government after a vigorous fight on the part of the Pittsburg coal exchange and
the Ohio River Improvement association. It is the first step in the direction of a slackwatered river, and the survey
will show the number of dams required between Pittsburg and Marietta, and the probable cost of the improvement. The engineers will reach here the last week
in July.

A MYSTERIOUS SHOOTING.

No One Knows Who Held the Revolver.

Jim Malone and Samuel Schaffer were standing near the ice plant Saturday night when they heard the report of a pistol. Malone suddenly dropped to the ground and said to Schaffer he was shot.
Upon examination it was found he had received a slight flesh wound in the left arm. He was taken to his home where his arm was dressed by a physician.
There is no clue as to who fired the shot.

LAST OF THE MIDGETS.

A Good Crowd Saw the Third Presentation.

The last performance of the "Mystic Midgets" was seen by a large crowd at the opera house Saturday night. The introduction of several specialties added greatly to the performance, although the little ones did just as well as ever.
The three performances netted a nice sum. Mr. Decker left the city this morning for Sharon. The gentleman has made many friends in the city.

CELEBRATED AN ANNIVERSARY.

Mrs. Cooper Was Remembered by the Students.

The business college students Saturday evening gave a very pleasant reception in honor of the birthday of Mrs.
J. F. Cooper. The rooms were appropriately decorated in the college colors, and a very entertaining musical and literary program was rendered. The guests then sat down to a sumptuous feast and the remainder of the evening was spent in having a good time.

CUT HIS LIP.

A Colored Lad Was Hit by a Baseball Bat.

While playing a game of ball in the West End Saturday, a young colored lad by the name of Williams was hit in the mouth by a bat. The lip was cut, and two stitches were put in it by Doctor Beane. His home is near the camp ground.

A LARGE FORCE.

Work Is Being Pushed on the Street Railway.

A large force of Wellsville men are engaged on the East Liverpool street railway, ballasting the tracks and making the roadbed something more than a succession of bumps and hollows. The work will be pushed until the line is practically rebuilt through to the East End.

Made Good Time.

Of the 20 pigeons liberated in Orville Saturday last at 12:55, 19 of them arrived in the city at 3 o'clock. The distance is 90 miles by rail, and the time made by the birds is considered good.
They covered it in two hours and five minutes.

THE GERMAN AUTOMATIC DISPENSER
OF QUICK REPASTS.

The Slot Principle Applied to Restaurants.
No Waiters to Fee or to Swear At—A Good Lunch Basket Scheme Used on German Railways.

Germany is showing the rest of the world how "quick lunches" may be served without employing waiters and how a hungry person may have just what he wants to eat and drink at a fixed price without paying an extra tip and without feeling himself called upon, no matter how particular he may be, to find fault with the service unless he is satisfied to make his complaint to a mechanical contrivance, which differs from some waiters in so far that it makes no pretense of caring a rap or the turn of a handle how uncomfortable or how badly served the hungry one may be. The contrivance, which has been perfected by the Quisiciana company of Berlin is so perfectly arranged that even those people who object to the manner of washing the cups and plates in the ordinary quick lunch places are deprived of their cause for complaint because every customer may supervise the cleaning of the cup which he will use, and if he is so inclined may attend to the duty himself.

The quick lunch stands are provided with automatic spraying nozzles for cleaning glass and china and insure perfect cleanliness. No rubber tubing is used to conduct liquids, silver tubes being employed for the purpose. The service is run by clockwork.

In place of the ordinary counter there are sets of ornamental cabinets ranged along one side of the room, which have a shelf projecting at a convenient height, upon which glasses and cups are placed. Above these there are faucets and a number of slots to receive the coin. When the customer has decided what sort of a drink he wants—coffee, tea, chocolate or beef tea—he drops the coin in the slot and receives the regulation quantity. The cold drinks—lemonade, soda water and all sorts of "soft drinks"—are kept in glass vessels and the hot drinks in nickel tanks surrounded by a hot water bath, which is heated by gas.

But the establishment is not limited to drinks, and the hungry man may also be served. Sandwiches and cakes are kept in a glass stand, circular in shape, which is covered with a glass bell. Each bell contains about a dozen sandwiches, and the purchaser indicates his choice by dropping his coin into the slot opposite the kind he wants, and the stand revolves sufficiently to bring his sandwich to an opening where he may take it out. Stands similarly arranged provide hot beef, chicken and other meats.

The quick lunch is nothing new in Germany, though, as any person will know who has made a railroad trip between Berlin and Copenhagen by way of Warnemunde. A man who made the trip several years ago said:

"We were coming back from Denmark and stopped at a little place on the German frontier at about noon.
Everybody was hungry, and the American contingent was disappointed when the conductor shouted, 'Funf minuten aufenthalt.' We knew that five minutes would not give us time for a meal, and we lost no time in leaving the coach as soon as it was unlocked. Everybody rushed pellmell into the restaurant, where a lot of wire things that looked like old fashioned rattaps were piled up. Everybody grabbed a trap, paid about 25 cents for it and rushed back to the train.

"What looked like a trap was really an ingeniously contrived lunch basket having three compartments. In one was an ample portion of chicken; the next contained sandwiches, and the third a dainty piece of pastry and a small bottle of wine, over which a little drinking glass was fastened. Little salt and pepper shakers and a knife and fork were fastened to the sides, and the whole was covered with a Japanese paper napkin. The fact that we were all hungry and that the whole arrangement was unexpected may have had something to do with our enjoyment of the luncheon, but it was agreed that it was the most perfect of the 'quick' kind we had ever seen. The bottom of the wire lunch basket was covered with a piece of glass, and a paper beneath it bore the request in German, French and English to leave the empty basket with the train-hand."

Managers of quick lunch places say that the automatic restaurant would not be patronized sufficiently to make it pay in New York.

"The main object of the automatic arrangement," said one, "is to do away with waiters and save the outlay on that account. We have accomplished that end by making every man his own waiter, and I believe that breakage in machines, falling off in trade and counterfeit coins would make a change from our present system to the automatic an expensive experiment. As to the quick lunches for travelers on railway trains, much can be done, and no one knows that better than the traveler who is compelled to make a meal of what he can buy from the dealer in pies, apples and sandwiches who hawks his wares through the cars. The buffet and the dining cars have reduced his field of operation, but he is still in business, selling the same old sandwiches to the people who cannot afford to ride in drawing room cars, and to them the quick lunch on the plan of those which they have in some parts of Europe would be a blessing."—New York Tribune.

LONDON MADMEN.

Some of the Queer Characters That Haunt
the City Streets.

There is scarcely a neighborhood in London which cannot boast of its local madman. Some strange or eccentric figure is to be found in every parish and in almost every important thoroughfare.

Marlebone has a religious maniac who is by profession a collector of rags and bones.

South Kensington a short time ago possessed two madmen—one who imagined himself to be Napoleon and walked slowly backward and forward, gravely saluting every one he met, and another who firmly believed himself to be Henry VIII. It is said that on one occasion he accosted a famous physician and instructed him to get him a divorce from Anne Boleyn. "If you can't manage it any other way," he said, "off with her head, off with her head!"

A man in Brompton would hail a cab and drive to a certain street in Chelsea.
There he would wander up and down for hours looking in vain for a house which had been pulled to pieces nearly 20 years before. It had evidently been associated with some important crisis in his life's history, and his mind refused to dissociate itself from the spot.

At one time there came forth every evening from across Westminster bridge, walking along Whitehall to the Strand,
a man wearing a long overcoat with a cape, a soft hat and leggings. He had a bunch of primroses or yellow flowers of some kind in his buttonhole and another in his hat. He carried a pipe and strode along with bent head and with one hand behind his back. He ignored every one, looked neither to the right nor the left and walked always at the same rate. Every now and then he would suddenly throw up his hands and shout in a deep voice, "Here's to the Jacobites all over England!" Then he would march on as before, and people who turned in alarm would see nothing but an eccentric looking figure, going steadily in the direction of the Strand.

LINCOLN AT SCHOOL.

A Schoolmate of the President Tells of His Early Life.

Mr. George H. Yenowine contributes a paper on "The Birthplace of Lincoln" to St. Nicholas. Mr. Yenowine quotes the following from an old man named Austin Gollaber, who went to school with the emancipator: "Lincoln was an unusually bright boy, and he made good progress in his books—better than almost any one else in school—and he studied very hard, although he was young. He would get spice wood bushes and hack them up on a log and put a few of them in the fire at a time to make a light for him to read his books
by. It did not make a very good light, but it was all he had at night. Young Lincoln was never good looking. He was angular and awkward. His mother was a rather slim woman of medium height. Tom Lincoln, his father, was tall. Abe was not very much like him, for Tom Lincoln had a fuller face and was of a heavier build."

In answer to a question as to Lincoln's brothers or sisters, the old man brightened up and said: "Oh, yes, he had a sister. Her name was Sally, and she was about my age. That was one reason why I thought so much of Abe.
But when the Lincolns moved to Indiana I did not say goodbye to either of them."

"I next heard of Lincoln several years afterward. It was said that he would make rails during the summer and thus earn money to go to school.
Then I heard no more of Lincoln until he was nominated for president. I told the boys that no matter what happened
I was going to vote for Abe. I said I was going to vote for him if it was the last act of my life, because I had played with him when a boy, and I was glad he had gone up in the world, and I did vote for him!" said the old man.

Not Full Yet.

The world is by no means full up yet.
Queensland has still an area of 430,000,
000 acres to a population of about 450,
000 people. Its government has lately been offering more tempting conditions to settlers, who may now hold ordinary land for 20 years at a rental of threepence per acre, while "scrub land" may be selected in areas up to 10,000 acres and held for 30 years at an average rental per acre of very much less than a penny.
This ought to be good news for many struggling for a bare living in the mother country. Of course the climatic conditions in many portions of the colony are trying, but so they are in western Australia, which at the present time is adding 750 per week to its population, and the revenue of which has been increasing at a rate far outstripping the calculations of its treasurer. But this may be only temporary, and it may be that Queensland will be the home of millions of our fellow countrymen after the golden age in the west of the colonial continent has passed away.—Westminster Gazette.

The United States Engineers
Will Resume Work

ON THE SURVEY OF THE RIVER

They Will Start at Industry, and Expect
to Be Here Before the End of July—The Boat Is Being Cleaned and Renovated.

The work of surveying the Ohio will be resumed bright and early next Monday morning.

When the lines were tied up last fall
the engineers left Industry, and the comfortable boat in which they live was brought to this city and moored at the foot of Market street. There it has remained in charge of a watchman.

The party have meantime been doing
office work in Cincinnati. As it was impossible to make headway when the water was high, Captain Jones, the
officer in charge of the survey, decided
last Saturday to begin June 14. A force of men were brought here from Cincinnati, and are now engaged in renovating the boat and preparing it for the reception of the engineers. Watchman
W. W. Culbard has gone to Cincinnati, but will return on the United State
steamer Edna next Saturday.

The survey is being made under an
order from the war department, $25,000
having been appropriated by the government after a vigorous fight on the part of the Pittsburg coal exchange and
the Ohio River Improvement association. It is the first step in the direction
of a slackwatered river, and the survey
will show the number of dams required
between Pittsburg and Marietta, and the probable cost of the improvement. The engineers will reach here the last week
in July.

THE GERMAN AUTOMATIC DISPENSER

HUNDRED MILE RUNS

Will Be Taken by a New Bicycle Organization.

A CENTURY CLUB IN PROSPECT

A Letter Has Been Sent to League Headquarters, and a Favorable Answer Is Expected—The Boys Each Want Gold Bars.

A movement is on hand which will doubtless result in the formation of a century club in the city.

Century clubs are an outgrowth of the League of American Wheelmen, the purpose being to promote fast riding. Each member of a regularly authorized organization of this sort who succeeds in riding 100 miles within 14 hours is presented with a gold bar for every ride. Pittsburg has a club, and not a week passes without some of its riders making the trip to Wellsville and return, as they look upon that as one of the easiest and best century runs in this part of the country. This city has as many vigorous riders as any town of its wheeling population in the country, and they believe they can hold their own with any. A letter has been sent to league headquarters, and upon the arrival of the answer an organization will be formed. It will have no less than a dozen charter members.

BAD BUGS.

Farmers Have Been Warned of Their Presence.

The farmers of Columbiana county have been warned by a bulletin from the state experiment station that there is some danger of the ravages of cinch bugs the coming summer. Considerable damage was done by bugs in the past two years. Farmers have reported millions of them wintering over in corn shocks, among the hedges, the moss on trees and among weeds along the roadside.

STRICKEN AT CHURCH.

Mrs. Ansley Suffered a Paralytic Stroke at Calcutta.

Mrs. Ansley, a respected resident of Calcutta, was stricken with paralysis while leaving the United Presbyterian church yesterday morning. She was taken into the church, and after a physician had been summoned was removed to her home. Squire Ansley, her husband, died about a year ago from the same cause. Bert Ansley, of this city, is her son, and Mrs. Ansley is well known here.

STARTED THIS WEEK.

Mayer Brothers' Pottery Is Ready For Business.

The new pottery of Mayer Brothers at Beaver Falls is completed, and it was expected work would be commenced this morning, but some little detail had not been attended to, and the plant will not start until later in the week. Before the fire employment was given to 125 persons. It is believed the number will be increased. The plant is one of the best in this section.

BY THE WAGONLOAD

Strawberries Are Being Brought to the City.

Home grown strawberries are in the market, and are being brought to the city by the wagonload. It is estimated that no less than 26 wagons loaded with the luscious fruit passed through Calcutta on their way to town. They sold at four quarts for a quarter, and farmers confidently expect the price will soon be six quarts for the same money. The fruit is of the best quality.

On the River.

The Kanawha and Keystone State passed up last evening. Both crafts had heavy trips, and from Wheeling to this city the latter boat gained one hour on the former. A local stable sent four horses to Pittsburg, and both boats received a number of passengers. The Keystone State will be down this evening, and will receive about ten tons of freight from this port.

There is a slight rise in the river, the marks now showing 3.6 feet.

Fine Strawberries.

M. G. Martin this morning presented the News Review with strawberries as fine as any seen in the city this season.

THREATENED CRISIS.

DIPLOMACY AVERTS INTERNATIONAL COMPLICATIONS.

How a Negro Justice of the Peace Held a British Vessel With a Writ of "Ne Exeat Republicum"—The Writ Was Dissolved in Liquor and a Laugh Went Around.

During the reign of the carpetbaggers in Georgia a very black but brainy old negro named Tunis G. Campbell came down from the north and became one of the leaders of his race.

Justice Campbell had no use for the whites because he knew that they cordially hated him.

But he did not confine his animosity to Georgians or to Democrats. He employed a number of negro constables, authorized them to carry weapons, and in a short time made his court a terror to the community.

So much by way of introduction. One summer a British sailing vessel came to Darien and took on a cargo of naval stores. Before getting ready to sail the captain settled everything due from him and his crew—that is, everything in the way of a just account. He secured his papers, when several negro traders of the lowest class unexpectedly put in claims for goods that had never been purchased.

These cormorants alleged that the captain and his sailors were indebted to them for meals, merchandise, lodging and other things.

"I want to hold that—foreigner here," said Campbell, "until he settles these bills."

"In England," replied the lawyer, "when you want to prevent people from leaving the country, you issue a writ of ne exeat regnum."

Justice Campbell came near falling to the floor.

"Just say that again," he said excitedly.

"A writ of ne exeat regnum."

"I see—I see," said Campbell. "Well, I want you to draw up one and keep that fellow here."

The shyster's resources were limited, and he explained to his friend that regnum meant kingdom, and as this country was a republic there would have to be a change in the verbiage.

The lawyer then admitted that he knew very little Latin, and for that reason was somewhat embarrassed.

"All right," was the prompt reply of Campbell. "Draw up a writ of ne exeat republicum."

"I am afraid it is bad Latin," objected the lawyer.

"I'll make it stick," answered the justice. "I'll sign the paper and swear in six special constables to enforce it."

The writ covered 20 pages of foolscap and ordered the Englishman, under the severest pains and penalties, to remain with his ship at Darien until he settled all claims.

It was a sultry August afternoon, and the vessel was about ready to depart, when it was boarded by Justice Campbell and six negro constables armed with guns.

The justice read the writ to the captain, and after informing him that the constables would remain until the matter was adjusted the judicial tyrant went ashore again.

Finally a plan of action was agreed upon, and when the ship's officers reappeared they were apparently in a good humor. They told the constables that they were welcome as the representatives of the law and requested them to enjoy the freedom of the vessel.

The constables were overwhelmed with tobacco and cigars and an occasional dram until their suspicions vanished.

Then the captain and his crew displayed still more hospitality, and the bottle was freely passed around.

At midnight six negro constables were in a drunken slumber, the effect of their drugged liquor, and the captain and his men were wide awake and perfectly sober.

The blacks were carefully deposited in a boat and set adrift in the harbor, and then the British sloop quietly weighed anchor and left the port at an hour when Justice Campbell was dreaming of his new and wonderful writ of ne exeat republicum.

The constables were picked up next day and sent to jail for neglect of duty, but the vessel was then beyond reach.

The British captain went straight to Savannah, where he laid his case before his consul and demanded an apology and an indemnity from the United States government.

The consul found it difficult to keep his face straight when he heard the story.

"It is an outrage," he said to the captain, "but it is a peculiar one and of a judicious nature. If I were you, I would not hold a friendly government responsible for the conduct of a few ignorant persons, who have not been free long enough to know their own rights and respect the rights of others.

It required a good deal of talk to appease the Englishman, but after he had been wine and dined by the merchants and had told his story a score of times, amid roars of laughter, he began to regard the affair as a good joke and agreed to let it drop.

And thus ended what threatened to be a serious international complication.

—Chicago Times-Herald.

RICHARD III.

He Never Injured the Masses and Was Not Unpopular With Them.

If Richard be tried by the only proper standard, that of his own time, he will be found to be not more but less cruel and bloody than either his predecessors or those who came after him. The act which has especially blackened his memory is the mysterious removal or murder of the princes. Yet Clifford, backed by Margaret of Anjou, had killed in cold blood Richard's brother, the Earl of Rutland, a boy of 16, while Henry VII imprisoned and executed the feeble minded Earl of Warwick, the son of Clarence. In mere numbers of executions, excluding, of course, on both sides those who were taken in open rebellion, Richard has much less to answer for than Queen Margaret or Henry VII and far less than Henry VIII, who put to death anybody who happened to be distasteful to him on political, personal or religious grounds. There was no public opinion in that day against putting to death any one who had played and lost in the great struggle of politics. Executions were a recognized part of the business. When the game went against a statesman in those days, as Mr. Speaker Reed once said, he did not cross the aisle and take his place as the leader of his majesty's opposition; he was sent to the tower and had his head cut off. Autres temps, autres mœurs.

At every turn of the wheel in the long struggle between the Lancastrians and the Yorkists the victorious party always executed every leader of the other side upon whom they could lay hands. Such were the rules of the society and such the politics in which Richard was brought up, and he played according to those rules and without excess, paying the final forfeit himself with undaunted courage.

Nothing is farther from the truth than the notion that Richard was unpopular with the masses of the people. He had never injured them, and they did not care how many nobles or princes he put to death.—Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge in Scribner's.

SANDBOX TREES.

The Gigantic Touch Me Nots of the Tropics Have Explosive Fruits.

Everybody is familiar with the "touch me not," the pretty jewel weed that grows along the side of water courses. When its seed pods are ripe, at the slightest touch they will explode, blowing the seeds in your face. The giant among them is the sandbox tree (Hura crepitans), a native of tropical America. Its furrowed fruits are as large as an orange. Cosmos of Paris thus describes this Krupp gun of the vegetable world:

"It is often cultivated as an ornamental tree, both in its native country and in other parts of the globe, notably in certain gardens in the Indies. Its fruit looks on the outside something like a melon; it is formed exactly like that of our native euphorbias, of sections, which at maturity separate violently with so intense a report that it has been compared to the sound of a pistol, throwing its seed to a considerable distance.

"With the fruit a very pretty sandbox can be made by cutting a circular opening in the upper part, extracting the seeds and then covering the opening. The opposite side is perforated with little holes. A sandbox thus made is very difficult to keep, for the time always comes when, aided by the drying process, the sections suddenly split, with a characteristic sound.

"The violent splitting of the fruit of the sablier is explained very simply by a process analogous to that which causes the two halves of a split stick to curl apart and depends upon the unequal extensibility of the elements of the valves, which produces the mechanical effect due to it at the precise moment when the sutures, the lines of least resistance, are opened by the progress of desiccation."

Lincoln's Grave.

About 1½ miles north of Springfield, Ill., Abraham Lincoln lies buried under a towering pile of marble, granite and bronze. The height of his monument is 120 feet. The cost was $250,000, the money being collected through popular contributions. Several attempts have been made to steal the body. Not until the leaden coffin was sunk deep in the crypt and covered with six feet of concrete did the robbers desist.—New York Press.

Lots of It.

"Yes," said Lungly as the clock hands neared the midnight hour, "I think I shall accept the presidency of that gas company."

"I should think you would be fitted for the position," she replied.—Philadelphia North American.

Low Rates.

Special reductions in fare over the Pennsylvania lines will be granted for numerous events to take place this summer in various parts of the United States, in addition to local excursions. Some of the points to which tickets will be sold and dates of sale are as follows:

To Nashville, Tenn., daily to October 15, for Tennessee Centennial and International exposition.

To Winona assembly grounds, Eagle Lake, (near Warsaw, Ind.) May 15 to August 31, for annual assembly and summer school.

To Pittsburg, June 12, 13 and 14, account national council, Junior American Mechanics.

To Celeron (Chautauqua Lake,) July 11 and 12, account Photographers Association of America.

To Toronto, Canada, July 13, 14 and 15, for Epworth League National convention.

To Minneapolis, July 3 and 4, for national meeting, B. P. O. Elks.

To Chattanooga, July 13, 14 and 15, account Baptist Young Peoples' union, of America.

To Detroit, July 12 and 13, for National Republican League meeting.

To Cincinnati, July 21 and 22, for German Epworth League meeting.

To Indianapolis, August 17 and 18, for Young People's Christian union annual convention.

To Indianapolis, September 8 and 9, for National Encampment Sons of Veterans.

The reduced rates over the Pennsylvania lines will not be restricted to members of the organizations mentioned, but may be taken advantage of by the public generally. Excursion tickets may be obtained at ticket offices on the Pennsylvania system and will also be sold over this route by connecting railways. Any Pennsylvania line ticket or passenger agent will furnish desired information concerning rates, time of trains, return limit, and other details, to all applicants, or the same may be obtained by addressing Samuel Moody, assistant general passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

New Entrance to New York.

All are convenient locations; Cortlandt street and Desbrosses street, in the downtown district, and Twenty-third street in the uptown district. The latter entrance will be formally opened May 16, when two new, commodious ferryboats, double-deckers, constructed especially for the Pennsylvania lines and furnished and fitted in up-to-date style, will be placed in service between the Jersey City station and Twenty-third street, connecting with all inbound and outbound trains over the Pennsylvania system, the same as the boats running between that station and Cortlandt street and Desbrosses street, which will also continue in the service.

The Pennsylvania lines' three entrances into New York enable passengers to quickly reach the business portion in the lower end of the city, as well as the hotels and business blocks in the very heart of the great metropolis. The ride across the river is a delightful and refreshing termination to an enjoyable trip. All through trains from the west, over the Pennsylvania lines, land passengers in New York between 9:30 a. m., and 9:30 p. m., treating them to a grand view of the city's water front; its extensive docks where at almost any time may be seen ships of many nations. The wonderful panorama gives visitors a slight idea of the magnitude of New York. The new Twenty-third street ferry line is particularly noteworthy in this respect.

Summer Outing.

The principal places of summer sojourn along the Atlantic ocean in the Alleghenies, the Adirondacks, Catskills, and mountains of the east, and in the lake region and Northern Michigan and the northwest, may be readily reached over the Pennsylvania lines.

Special information regarding the leading resorts and the advantages enjoyed in journeying to them over the Pennsylvania route has been compiled and printed in convenient form. The matter is profusely illustrated with photographic reproductions of seashore scenes and includes views at Atlantic City, Cape May, Long Branch and other resorts along the Atlantic coast; also of Cresson, Bedford Springs, and romantic mountain retreats, and of Petoskey, Mackinac, and the summer havens in Michigan and the northwest.

Persons contemplating summer outing trips will find it a valuable guide in shaping preliminaries. Copies may be obtained by addressing D. C. MacWaters, district passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

Went Home on a Train.

In the Yosemite Valley a while ago, a young fellow went out on the edge of a shelving precipice two thousand feet high, and balanced himself on his head. A little slip or little puff of wind would have sent him to eternity. Not one man in a million would be that kind of a fool. But nine men in ten are all the time taking foolish chances.

There is no deadly peril about a little fit of indigestion or biliousness, and yet if a man allows these troubles to get a hold on him he is taking serious risks. Dyspepsia alone seldom kills anybody; that is, it only kills you by inches, and takes a good many years doing it. But it weakens and undermines the constitution so that it is all ready to receive and fertilize the dangerous diseases which do kill you outright.

Disease germs won't grow in healthy blood any more than corn will grow on a rock. A man who keeps his digestion perfect and his blood pure may eat and drink and breathe the disease germs, but they gain no foothold. They are cast out of the system. But a man with a dyspepsia-weakened constitution breathes in typhoid or diphtheria germs and down he goes.

The best health insurance a man can have is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It acts directly on the stomach and liver. It gives the blood-making organs power to make healthy blood. It clarifies the blood from all impurities, and builds up the healthy flesh, muscular power and nerve energy, which fortifies you against disease.

His life-long success in the treatment of chronic diseases has given Dr. Pierce's medicines a world-wide reputation. His "Pleasant Pellets" cure constipation.

Farmers Have Been Warned of Their Presence.

The farmers of Columbiana county have been warned by a bulletin from the state experiment station that there is some danger of the ravages of cinch bugs the coming summer. Considerable damage was done by bugs in the past two years. Farmers have reported millions of them wintering over in corn shocks, among the hedges, the moss on trees and among weeds along the roadside.

STRICKEN AT CHURCH.

Mrs. Ansley Suffered a Paralytic Stroke at Calcutta.

Mrs. Ansley, a respected resident of Calcutta, was stricken with paralysis while leaving the United Presbyterian church yesterday morning. She was taken into the church, and after a physician had been summoned was removed to her home. Squire Ansley, her husband, died about a year ago from the same cause. Bert Ansley, of this city, is her son, and Mrs. Ansley is well known here.

STARTED THIS WEEK.

Mayer Brothers' Pottery Is Ready For Business.

The new pottery of Mayer Brothers at Beaver Falls is completed, and it was expected work would be commenced this morning, but some little detail had not been attended to, and the plant will not start until later in the week. Before the fire employment was given to 125 persons. It is believed the number will be increased. The plant is one of the best in this section.

BY THE WAGONLOAD

Strawberries Are Being Brought to the City.

Home grown strawberries are in the market, and are being brought to the city by the wagonload. It is estimated that no less than 26 wagons loaded with the luscious fruit passed through Calcutta on their way to town. They sold at four quarts for a quarter, and farmers confidently expect the price will soon be six quarts for the same money. The fruit is of the best quality.

On the River.

The Kanawha and Keystone State passed up last evening. Both crafts had heavy trips, and from Wheeling to this city the latter boat gained one hour on the former. A local stable sent four horses to Pittsburgh, and both boats received a number of passengers. The Keystone State will be down this evening, and will receive about ten tons of freight from this port.

There is a slight rise in the river, the marks now showing 3.6 feet.

Adjourned For the Summer.

The Women's Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church, Saturday afternoon as customary, held their last meeting for the summer, and adjourned until September. The members of the society were treated to a light lunch by the officers.

Fine Strawberries.

M. G. Martin this morning presented the NEWS REVIEW with strawberries as fine as any seen in the city this season.

DIPLOMACY AVERTS INTERNATIONAL COMPLICATIONS.

How a Negro Justice of the Peace Held a British Vessel With a Writ of "Ne Exeat Republicum"—The Writ Was Dissolved In Liquor and a Laugh Went Around.

During the reign of the carpetbaggers in Georgia a very black but brainy old negro named Tunis G. Campbell came down from the north and became one of the leaders of his race.

In the course of time Campbell was made a justice of the peace at the port of Darien. Then the trouble began in earnest.

Justice Campbell had no use for the whites because he knew that they cordially hated him.

But he did not confine his animosity to Georgians or to Democrats. He employed a number of negro constables, authorized them to carry weapons, and in a short time made his court a terror to the community.

So much by way of introduction. One summer a British sailing vessel came to Darien and took on a cargo of naval stores. Before getting ready to sail the captain settled everything due from him and his crew—that is, everything in the way of a just account. He secured his papers, when several negro traders of the lowest class unexpectedly put in claims for goods that had never been purchased.

These cormorants alleged that the captain and his sailors were indebted to them for meals, merchandise, lodging and other things.

It was evident that these claims were fraudulent, and the captain continued his preparations for his departure.

The afternoon he was to weigh anchor Justice Campbell held a consultation with a shyster lawyer.

"I want to hold that—foreigner here," said Campbell, "until he settles these bills!"

"In England," replied the lawyer, "when you want to prevent people from leaving the country, you issue a writ of ne exeat regnum."

Justice Campbell came near falling to the floor.

"Just say that again," he said excitedly.

"A writ of ne exeat regnum."

"I see—I see," said Campbell. "Well, I want you to draw up one and keep that fellow here."

The shyster's resources were limited, and he explained to his friend that regnum meant kingdom, and as this country was a republic there would have to be a change in the verbiage.

"Change it," commanded the black justice.

The lawyer then admitted that he knew very little Latin, and for that reason was somewhat embarrassed.

"This is a republic," he said.

"All right," was the prompt reply of Campbell. "Draw up a writ of ne exeat republicum."

"I am afraid it is bad Latin," objected the lawyer.

"I'll make it stick," answered the justice. "I'll sign the paper and swear in six special constables to enforce it."

This was enough, and the lawyer proceeded to draw up the most remarkable document ever seen in America.

The writ covered 20 pages of foolscap and ordered the Englishman, under the severest pains and penalties, to remain with his ship at Darien until he settled all claims.

It was a sultry August afternoon, and the vessel was about ready to depart, when it was boarded by Justice Campbell and six negro constables armed with guns.

The justice read the writ to the captain, and after informing him that the constables would remain until the matter was adjusted the judicial tyrant went ashore again.

The captain retired to the cabin with the mate and talked it over.

Finally a plan of action was agreed upon, and when the ship's officers reappeared they were apparently in a good humor. They told the constables that they were welcome as the representatives of the law and requested them to enjoy the freedom of the vessel.

The constables were overwhelmed with tobacco and cigars and an occasional dram until their suspicions vanished.

Then the captain and his crew displayed still more hospitality, and the bottle was freely passed around.

At midnight six negro constables were in a drunken slumber, the effect of their drugged liquor, and the captain and his men were wide awake and perfectly sober.

The blacks were carefully deposited in a boat and set adrift in the harbor, and then the British sloop quietly weighed anchor and left the port at an hour when Justice Campbell was dreaming of his new and wonderful writ of ne exeat republicum.

The constables were picked up next day and sent to jail for neglect of duty, but the vessel was then beyond reach.

The British captain went straight to Savannah, where he laid his case before his consul and demanded an apology and an indemnity from the United States government.

The consul found it difficult to keep his face straight when he heard the story.

"It is an outrage," he said to the captain. "but it is a peculiar one and of a ludicrous nature. If I were you, I would not hold a friendly government responsible for the conduct of a few ignorant persons, who have not been free long enough to know their own rights and respect the rights of others.

It required a good deal of talk to appease the Englishman, but after he had been wine and dined by the merchants and had told his story a score of times, amid roars of laughter, he began to regard the affair as a good joke and agreed to let it drop.

And thus ended what threatened to be a serious international complication. —Chicago Times-Herald.

RICHARD III.

He Never Injured the Masses and Was Not Unpopular With Them.

If Richard be tried by the only proper standard, that of his own time, he will be found to be not more but less cruel and bloody than either his predecessors or those who came after him. The act which has especially blackened his memory is the mysterious removal or murder of the princes. Yet Clifford, backed by Margaret of Anjou, had killed in cold blood Richard's brother, the Earl of Rutland, a boy of 16, while Henry VII imprisoned and executed the feeble minded Earl of Warwick, the son of Clarence. In mere numbers of executions, excluding, of course, on both sides those who were taken in open rebellion, Richard has much less to answer for than Queen Margaret or Henry VII and far less than Henry VIII, who put to death anybody who happened to be distasteful to him on political, personal or religious grounds. There was no public opinion in that day against putting to death any one who had played and lost in the great struggle of politics. Executions were a recognized part of the business. When the game went against a statesman in those days, as Mr. Speaker Reed once said, he did not cross the aisle and take his place as the leader of his majesty's opposition; he was sent to the tower and had his head cut off. Autres temps, autres mœurs.

At every turn of the wheel in the long struggle between the Lancastrians and the Yorkists the victorious party always executed every leader of the other side upon whom they could lay hands. Such were the rules of the society and such the politics in which Richard was brought up, and he played according to those rules and without excess, paying the final forfeit himself with undaunted courage.

Nothing is farther from the truth than the notion that Richard was unpopular with the masses of the people. He had never injured them, and they did not care how many nobles or princes he put to death.—Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge in Scribner's.

SANDBOX TREES.

The Gigantic Touch Me Nots of the Tropics Have Explosive Fruits.

Everybody is familiar with the "touch me not," the pretty jewel weed that grows along the side of water courses. When its seed pods are ripe, at the slightest touch they will explode, blowing the seeds in your face. The giant among them is the sandbox tree (Hura crepitans), a native of tropical America. Its furrowed fruits are as large as an orange. Cosmos of Paris thus describes this Krupp gun of the vegetable world:

"It is often cultivated as an ornamental tree, both in its native country and in other parts of the globe, notably in certain gardens in the Indies. Its fruit looks on the outside something like a melon; it is formed exactly like that of our native euphorbias, of sections, which at maturity separate violently with so intense a report that it has been compared to the sound of a pistol, throwing its seed to a considerable distance.

"With the fruit a very pretty sandbox can be made by cutting a circular opening in the upper part, extracting the seeds and then covering the opening. The opposite side is perforated with little holes. A sandbox thus made is very difficult to keep, for the time always comes when, aided by the drying process, the sections suddenly split, with a characteristic sound.

"The violent splitting of the fruit of the sablier is explained very simply by a process analogous to that which causes the two halves of a split stick to curl apart and depends upon the unequal extensibility of the elements of the valves, which produces the mechanical effect due to it at the precise moment when the sutures, the lines of least resistance, are opened by the progress of desiccation."

Lincoln's Grave.

About 1½ miles north of Springfield, Ill., Abraham Lincoln lies buried under a towering pile of marble, granite and bronze. The height of his monument is 120 feet. The cost was $250,000, the money being collected through popular contributions. Several attempts have been made to steal the body. Not until the leaden coffin was sunk deep in the crypt and covered with six feet of concrete did the robbers desist.—New York Press.

Lots of It.

"Yes," said Lungy as the clock hands neared the midnight hour, "I think I shall accept the presidency of that gas company."

"I should think you would be fitted for the position," she replied.—Philadelphia North American.

Low Rates.

Special reductions in fare over the Pennsylvania lines will be granted for numerous events to take place this summer in various parts of the United States, in addition to local excursions. Some of the points to which tickets will be sold and dates of sale are as follows:

To Nashville, Tenn., daily to October 15, for Tennessee Centennial and International exposition.

To Winona assembly grounds, Eagle Lake, (near Warsaw, Ind.) May 15 to August 31, for annual assembly and summer school.

To Pittsburg, June 12, 13 and 14, account national council, Junior American Mechanics.

To Celeron (Chautauqua Lake,) July 11 and 12, account Photographers Association of America.

To Toronto, Canada, July 13, 14 and 15, for Epworth League National convention.

To Minneapolis, July 3 and 4, for national meeting, B. P. O. Elks.

To Chattanooga, July 13, 14 and 15, account Baptist Young Peoples' union, of America.

To Detroit, July 12 and 13, for National Republican League meeting.

To Cincinnati, July 21 and 22, for German Epworth League meeting.

To Indianapolis, August 17 and 18, for Young People's Christian union annual convention.

To Indianapolis, September 8 and 9, for National Encampment Sons of Veterans.

The reduced rates over the Pennsylvania lines will not be restricted to members of the organizations mentioned, but may be taken advantage of by the public generally. Excursion tickets may be obtained at ticket offices on the Pennsylvania system and will also be sold over this route by connecting railways. Any Pennsylvania line ticket or passenger agent will furnish desired information concerning rates, time of trains, return limit, and other details, to all applicants, or the same may be obtained by addressing Samuel Moody, assistant general passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

New Entrance to New York.

All are convenient locations; Cortlandt street and Desbrosses street, in the downtown district, and Twenty-third street in the uptown district. The latter entrance will be formally opened May 16, when two new, commodious ferryboats, double-deckers, constructed especially for the Pennsylvania lines and furnished and fitted in up-to-date style, will be placed in service between the Jersey City station and Twenty-third street, connecting with all inbound and outbound trains over the Pennsylvania system, the same as the boats running between that station and Cortlandt street and Desbrosses street, which will also continue in the service.

The Pennsylvania lines' three entrances into New York enable passengers to quickly reach the business portion in the lower end of the city, as well as the hotels and business blocks in the very heart of the great metropolis. The ride across the river is a delightful and refreshing termination to an enjoyable trip. All through trains from the west, over the Pennsylvania lines, land passengers in New York between 9:30 a. m., and 9:30 p. m., treating them to a grand view of the city's water front; its extensive docks where at almost any time may be seen ships of many nations. The wonderful panorama gives visitors a slight idea of the magnitude of New York. The new Twenty-third street ferry line is particularly noteworthy in this respect.

Summer Outing.

The principal places of summer sojourn along the Atlantic ocean in the Alleghenies, the Adirondacks, Catskills, and mountains of the east, and in the lake region and Northern Michigan and the northwest, may be readily reached over the Pennsylvania lines.

Special information regarding the leading resorts and the advantages enjoyed in journeying to them over the Pennsylvania route has been compiled and printed in convenient form. The matter is profusely illustrated with photographic reproductions of seashore scenes and includes views at Atlantic City, Cape May, Long Branch and other resorts along the Atlantic coast; also of Cresson, Bedford Springs, and romantic mountain retreats, and of Petoskey, Mackinac, and the summer havens in Michigan and the northwest.

Persons contemplating summer outing trips will find it a valuable guide in obtaining preliminaries. Copies may be shaped by addressing D. C. MacWaters, district passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

Went Home on a Train.

In the Yosemite Valley a while ago, a young fellow went out on the edge of a shelving precipice two thousand feet high, and balanced himself on his head. A little slip or puff of wind would have sent him to eternity. Not one man in a million would be that kind of a fool. But nine times in ten are all the time taking foolish chances.

There is no deadly peril about a little bit of indigestion or biliousness, and yet if a man allows these troubles to get a hold on him he is taking serious risks. Dyspepsia alone seldom kills anybody; that is, it only kills you by inches, and takes a good many years doing it. But it weakens and undermines the constitution so that it is all ready to receive and fertilize the dangerous diseases which do kill you outright.

Disease germs won't grow in healthy blood any more than corn will grow on a rock. A man who keeps his digestion perfect and his blood pure may eat and drink and breathe the disease germs, but they gain no foothold. They are cast out of the system. But a man with a dyspepsia weakened constitution breathes in typhoid or diphtheretic germs and down he goes.

The best health insurance a man can have is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It acts directly on the stomach and liver. It gives the blood-making organs power to make healthy blood. It clarifies the blood from all impurities, and builds up the healthy flesh, muscular power and nerve energy, which fortifies you against disease.

Curls In the Coiffure.

There is a decided effort just now toward introducing curls into the coiffure. When it is one long ringlet hanging down the neck upon the shoulders, a revival of what was popular in this country about a quarter of a century ago, the effect is stiff and ungraceful. Two shorter ones, however, pendant from the hair massed in the middle of the back of the head, have the appearance of escaped locks, are less set and premeditated, and consequently much more picturesque.—Exchange.

Belts.

Belts of bias black satin and black satin ribbon are still a feature of dress, and the wide belt of bias satin folds drawn around a slender figure is one of the most becoming fancies. Belts of ribbon with buckles in the back are seen on many of the new thin gowns, and three bands of inch wide black velvet ribbon, spreading a little distance apart at the middle of the back, where they are fastened with small steel buckles, is another pretty belt effect.

Curls In the Coiffure. There is a decided effort just now toward introducing curls into the coiffure. When it is one long ringlet hanging down the neck upon the shoulders, a revival of what was popular in this country about a quarter of a century ago, the effect is stiff and ungraceful. Two shorter ones, however, pendant from the hair massed in the middle of the back of the head, have the appearance of escaped locks, are less set and premeditated, and consequently much more picturesque.—Exchange.
